WOODIN HOVERS
ON EDGE OF JUMP
FROM CABINETPoor Health Is Sole Reason.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—Secretary of the Treasury Woodin came within a hair today of making "an important announcement."

He was prevented from doing so only because it was such a banner day for the administration, with all the money and commodity markets behaving as the New Dealers thought they should, and it would have upset too bad, Mr. Woodin figured, to upset things with his "important announcement."

So he put it off until the end of the week, and if the time seems more opportune than Mr. Woodin would care to put in his very good friends, the gentlemen of the press, and tell his secret.

The secret, it may be declared now on good authority, will be that Mr. Woodin is retiring from the President's cabinet.

Health Is Real Reason.

It has been no secret that Mr. Woodin has been angling for several months for a good opportunity to resign. The reason for this, it is definitely known, is that his health has been such that he cannot continue to bear the burdens of being secretary of the treasury in such tumultuous times as these, unless he chooses to sacrifice his health, his life even, to the New Deal.

While Mr. Woodin, through his proved strength of devotion to his friend, the President, undoubtedly could and would rise to such heroism, his family is reported to have weighed heavily upon him with pleas that he retire.

A thoroughly modest man, Mr. Woodin is also convinced that the treasury could safely be placed in other hands without danger to the republic, thus relieving him of the necessity for heroic sacrifice.

May Delay If Needed.

In the immediate situation, however, with the President's monetary experiment in its infancy, and with almost any changing factor serving to alter its operations one way or another, Mr. Woodin is reported quite willing to defer his leaving from day to day, or even from week to week, until time and the stars may be quite propitious.

However, on the evidence submitted in a day of strange maneuvering, it is expected in informed quarters that Mr. Woodin probably will retire to private life upon the close of the markets at noon next Saturday.

This would give the stock and grain markets, and the money markets over the world a full weekend to get over the shock of Secretary Woodin's separation from the cabinet, as well as the appointment of his successor.

Successor Is in Doubt.

There is no credible information available today as to the identity of the successor, except that those familiar with the President's attitude are satisfied he will select a man of liberal thought in financial matters, one in sympathy with the Roosevelt views on monetary issues.

It is deemed certain the President has excluded from consideration any who might fall in the classifications of bankers, financiers from Wall street or La Salle street, or politicians.

The new secretary of the treasury, it is expected, will be a man whom the President can rely upon to carry out his policies without interference from the fraternity of high finance as represented in New York and Chicago. The President has in effect declared war upon the "gamblers" who operate on the stock and grain exchanges, and his treasury head will be in sympathy with that aim, it is reckoned.

The resignation of Secretary Woodin, however, will have no significance whatever except as concerns his health. No conflict of policy exists between him and the President, he made it plain today, as he gave publicly an enthusiastic endorsement of the Roosevelt fiscal program.

No Camouflage on Position.

While in some quarters it has been taken that Mr. Woodin is really not in agreement with his chief's money maneuvers, it was learned on definite authority that there is no camouflage whatever in Mr. Woodin's statement, made this morning as follows:

"The President has been good enough to consult with me in my program. I am heartily in sympathy

SEC. WALLACE
PICTURES CITY
AS 'AN ASH HEAP'Explains U. S. Farm Program.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in a speech here yesterday criticized the attitude of city folk toward the recovery program as expressed in Chicago newspapers. This viewpoint, he said, is "far more dangerous than the outbreaks in Iowa." The criticism was uttered in a last minute departure from the text of Mr. Wallace's prepared speech.

The secretary, who is responsible for carrying through the federal farm adjustment program, spoke before the Association of Land Grant Colleges in the Stevens hotel. Starting out to deliver an academic discussion of the relief measures for agriculture and the problems that would follow the present emergency activities, he turned abruptly to a clipping in his hand which he described only as an editorial from a Chicago evening newspaper.

Warns Chicago of Dangers.

"If people of Chicago cannot become possessed of a more statesmanlike knowledge of the national crisis," he shouted, pounding on the table, "the consequences will be such that Chicago must surely become an ash heap. I admit that the prospecting tax is unpopular. But it is justified if for no other reason than that it brings us more promptly to realization of our predicament."

Quoting from the newspaper clipping which described the advancing city living costs to meet the expense involved in the program of farm production control, Wallace declared that "it is damnable to set class against class."

"Details of our plans may be subject to criticism," continued the secretary. "But the plan itself is an effort to face the facts and to correct a situation resulting from 15 years of failure to face resolutely our responsibilities as a creditor nation that also is an exporting nation."

"I don't like the idea of compulsion in making the readjustments in our output that must be made. I would much rather see increased foreign purchasing power come by the reduction of tariffs. But it became necessary for us to take the expedient course at our command."

Plea to City Workers.

Mr. Wallace pleaded for a realization by city wage earners of the fact that the wage earner and farmer have fared equally in recent years and that "gross income of farmers has no more than kept pace with wages" since the recovery program was started.

"I have tried to make it clear to farmers, and to the western governors who sought price fixing and a rapid price increase," he added, "that farm prices cannot rise as fast as we wanted because the income of purchasers just isn't there to make it possible."

Mr. Wallace likened the NRA and AAA programs to the two legs of a man, who, he said, could not advance one leg much farther than the other. In June and July, he said, the leg of the farmer had been ahead, and in August, September and October the leg representing industry had gained advantage.

"It is impossible to keep an even balance between the two," he said, "yet both must move ahead if we are to bring about recovery. Higher prices of consumer goods, it must be realized, either bring increased payrolls or increased income to distributors and in time they must be reflected in greater purchasing power for all."

Mr. Wallace told the heads of the land grant colleges, upon whom depends actual operating process involved in carrying out the crop reduction program through the state colleges and rural extension services, that "all of us will be subjected to great pressure from the extreme right and left—business interests on one hand and radicals on the other. There is danger of being swept off our feet without thinking their proposals through."

The secretary defended the professors in the "brain trust" as being "more immune to pressure of this sort than any men I know of," because, he said, they have trained minds to attack a problem and see it through.

Brown Derby to Hang Today

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Al Smith's brown derby will hang in the reception hall at the White House tomorrow for the first time since President Roosevelt took office.

Coming here for the annual meeting of the trustees of the Catholic University of America, Smith, it was learned today at the White House, will "drop in" for a general talk with the President. The White House and official Washington carefully withheld comment tonight on the impending meeting between the two chief Democrats.

It was pointed out, however, that Smith's call during his brief visit here is almost required by official courtesy unless he wished to snub the President.

First Visit Since March 4.

Smith has not been here since March 4, when he marched in the inaugural parade and waved a greeting to the President as he strode past the reviewing stands with the Tammany braves.

The last known private conversation between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Smith was at the Executive Mansion in Albany, shortly before the 1932 election, when Mr. Smith, who had spoken for Mr. Roosevelt at Boston and other cities in Massachusetts, stopped in Albany on his way to Buffalo and called on Mr. Roosevelt by invitation.

They met and talked cordially for a few minutes a few weeks ago at a dinner in New York.

In recent magazine articles, however, Smith has been critical of various phases of the new deal. He also failed to back Joseph V. McKee, Postmaster General James A. Farley's candidate in the recent New York mayoral election.

May Affect New York.

Rumors, generally believed not to be well founded, were that the meeting would produce some rapprochement between Smith and the President or result in a working agreement to clean up New York politics and regain ground lost by the Democrats through the choice of Mayor Elect F. H. La Guardia, the Republican-Piston candidate.

President Roosevelt was advised today that by coincidence both Mr. Smith and John F. Curry, Tammany leader, are to be in Washington tomorrow. Confronted with the problem whether to invite them to the White House, he sent word to Mr. Smith to have tea with him at 4:31 p. m. Up to a late hour tonight Mr. Curry had received no invitation and was planning to return to New York "in the morning" without seeing the President.

KANSAS HOUSE
STATE DRY ACT

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—By a vote of 92 to 27, eight more votes than the two-thirds majority the measure will require on third reading, the house of representatives today approved a proposal for a state vote in November, 1934, on Kansas' 53 year old prohibition amendment.

Should the submission resolution be passed by the house, it is subject to senate action, where it would need 27 of the 40 votes to be submitted to referendum.

The house last winter rejected a proposal to allow a state vote on the 18th amendment repealer.

Hamm Shakes
Case Against Touhy Gang

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]

A tense courtroom this afternoon saw a finish fight between opposing counsel in the William Hamm Jr. $100,000 ransom kidnapping case, with the United States government again on the losing end in its effort to convict the Touhy gang.

The battle, which raged around the millionaire brewer during his cross-examination by defense attorneys, centered on his partial identification of Edward (Father Tom) McFadden, the only one of the four implicated by the evidence.

Hamm Pathetically Nervous.

Hamm, tall, lean and pallid, wearing a mourning band on the left arm of his powder blue sack suit and pathetically nervous, had testified under the kindly ministrations of United States District Attorney George F. Sullivan that McFadden "resembled the man who seized his hand and held it while a companion hustled him into the kidnappers' car."

The fireworks started when William Scott Stewart, chief of counsel for the Touhys, elicited from Hamm that he originally had identified a picture of Verne Sankey, ex-convict and professional kidnaper, as the man who seized his hand. Hamm, trapped, said he had done so because "the police suggested Sa key must be the fellow."

"O," thundered Stewart, "so you did just what the police told you to do?"

Hamm continued to flounder throughout the cross-examination.

Based on Lindbergh Law.

Attacking the government case at its foundation as based on the Lindbergh law, Stewart produced copies of St. Paul newspapers containing signed interviews by Hamm immediately after his release stating that he believed the house where he was held captive was located in northern Minnesota.

"I have no recollection of what I gave out to the newspapers," he said. Pressed further by Stewart he finally declared he had deliberately misled the newspapers. That all the information was "intentionally untrue." The climax of the morning session was reached when Stewart led McFadden before Hamm and asked him:

"Can you identify this man as one of the two that accosted you the day of the abduction?"

U. S. Objection Overruled.

"I cannot," replied Hamm.

The assistant United States attorney general, Joseph B. Keenan, constantly was leading to his feet with objections, but Federal Judge Matthew M. Joyce usually overruled him.

Thomas McMeekin, associate defense counsel, confused Hamm so badly on identification of criminals and rogues' gallery pictures that Sullivan, to save his ace witness' face, asked him on redirect examination if the man who seized his hand the day of his abduction was McFadden. Defense counsel objected on the ground the question was repetitive. Although for both sides went into a huddle in front of the bench. After a five minute soliloquy conference Judge Joyce ruled Hamm might answer. And this is what he said:

"I can't say whether he is or not."

Solar Plexus Blow.

It was a solar plexus blow for the government. Sullivan, desperate, led Hamm back again over Friday's line of questioning and at the crucial point Hamm desist by saying:

"I thought the man who took my hand that day was taller than McFadden and had finer features."

Hamm's strangely contradictory attitude forced the government's hand and Sullivan introduced into the record a signed statement made by the brewer last July 13 in Chicago to Melvin Purvis, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice there. It was taken soon after the Touhy gangsters' arrest and while they were in Purvis' custody for examination in the kidnapping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor. Hamm then said that "the features and characteristics of McFadden" were "very similar to the man who took me into custody June 15."

30 YEARS AGO

Harry G. Dyer, 50 years old, a farmer of Schwenksville, Pa., reported to the South State street police yesterday that he had been fleeced out of $59 by two strangers in a penny matching game.

He met one of the men in a railroad station, and the other in the Art Institute, he related. The first man suggested that he and Dyer try the second stranger in a penny matching game, to which the Pennsylvania agreed. Dyer always threw heads and his partner always threw tails. It happened that the man who was to be trimmed always threw heads, too, with the result that Dyer's partner won. Then suddenly the two strangers disappeared, taking Dyer's $59 with them.

"I'm ashamed," confessed Dyer. "Just thirty years ago in Philadelphia two swindlers took me the same way in a penny matching game."

SENATE LAWYER
RIPS INTO LONG;
CALLS HIM A RATInquiry on Election Held Whitewash.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Shaking his finger in the face of Senator Huey

P. Long and calling him "the rat from Louisiana,"

John G. Holland, special investigator for the senate committee investigating the election of Senator John H. Overton, charged that the only reason the committee resumed the hearing today was to close the record—indicating his opinion that the committee wanted to hush up the Long-Overtown election scandal.

Overton is a partisan of Long. Louisiana enemies of the Kingfish have been charging that the Democratic senators on the investigating committee have been putting the hush on the inquiry into the scandal of Overton's election and Long's whiplash rule in his state.

Boiled Up in Washington.

When the inquiry got under way today, after months of inaction, investigator Holland was trembling with rage. He asserted that he "had been bottled up in Washington for four months to prevent me getting evidence," and that "not one member of the committee had examined the evidence already in his files."

The investigator's outburst occasioned a storm of shouting, stamping and howling in the federal courtroom where the subcommittee resumed the hearing at the point where another subcommittee headed by the late Senator Howell of Nebraska left off last February.

Senator M. M. Logan of Kentucky, in the chair, pounded for minutes to quiet the uproar.

"I have never seen nor heard of such a scene in an American courtroom," he remarked after comparative quiet had been restored.

Didn't Trust Committee?

Mr. Holland was addressing the committee when Senator Logan remarked to Edward Righor, counsel for former Senator Edwin S. Brown, said that counsel had submitted no names of witnesses to be called. Brown said he was contesting Overton's election.

"We gave names of 90 witnesses and 200 pages of evidence to Mr. Holland," said Mr. Righor. "Is that not the same as giving them to the committee?"

"Well, this is news to me," said Senator Logan, "because Mr. Holland has no more trust in this committee than you have and feared that if he gave it the names there would be a leak."

"One minute," cried Mr. Holland. "Now I'll make a statement. You can take the lid off this investigation and it won't take more than an hour. But after I conclude the first Democrat on the committee is going to ask the witness [Seymour Weiss who refused at the last hearing to answer a question about the distribution of funds for the Overton campaign] a question for the purpose of purging him of the contempt he has committed before this committee on the orders of that rat from Louisiana who is responsible for sending the late Senator Howell to his grave."

Says Senator Is "Yellow."

As he spoke, the investigator swung around until his waving finger was waving around Senator Long's nose. "Do you know why Senator Connally [of Texas] is not here?" Mr. Holland shouted above the yelling of the spectators.

"Well, it's because he's so yellow that he hasn't got the guts to come here. He's staying in Texas on some slim excuse to come meeting in here tomorrow—he and Bratton [of New Mexico] after it's all down to routine and leave you two poor birds [pointing to Senators Thomas and Logan] to complete the exonerated. The only reason you are here is to close the record."

Still outbawling the audience as a vain attempt to restore order was made, Holland charged that Senators Connally and Bratton had blocked the investigation because they were Democrats. He spoke of an executive session of the committee without making clear the full course of the action taken then, but saying to Senator Logan:

"When I started telling you facts you said I was prejudiced and you said that if I'd repeat in your office the things I was saying then, you'd beat me up."

"Didn't Know He Was Crazy." Senator Logan raised his voice in denial.

"I said I'd fire you. I didn't know you were crazy. Now I'm giving you a chance to show the people of Louisiana just why you weren't sent back here."

But Holland insisted angrily upon his version of the affair.

"Senator Connolly told them then that I'd better be careful what I did and said."

"You'd better not do anything I don't tell you to do."

"I told you then and I tell you now," Holland shouted, "that I haven't been taking my salary checks as hush money."

Senator Logan kept interrupting at this stage to ask why Mr. Holland had not turned the names of witnesses over to the committee and at last the investigator shouted:

"Because not one of you showed sufficient interest to seek the names. Not one of you has seen any of the evidence in my files. I begged you to come to my office and look at the evidence. You wouldn't. To this day not one of you has seen Gen. Ansell and obtained his view of the case."

Gen. Samuel Tilden Ansell, U. S. A., retired, was counsel for the committee at the stormy hearing last winter.

Women Enter the Fight.

Throughout the day the bitterness between all parties brought on squalls of ever-increasing fierceness. Mrs. Hilda Phelps-Hammond reported her criticism of the committee for its failure to take action sooner and said that Senator Logan had boasted that nothing would come of this hearing.

"As a matter of fact," she went on, "you cannot get witnesses to this hearing because they fear reprisals from the Long machine."

Senator Logan replied that this was to be no Roman holiday and that the hearing was to be confined strictly to the question of Senator Overton's fitness for his post.

Only two witnesses were called during the day, Senator Long and Seymour Weiss, who defied the committee last spring. Senator Long recited his career and the history of the use of dummy candidates in elections to give one side or the other in the number of commissioners at the polls. Mr. Weiss admitted that he had loaned money to the Long dummies in New Orleans and perhaps in other sections, but insisted he had gotten it back.

Senator Long was on the stand as the hearing adjourned.

EIGHT SUSPECTS IN AUTO THEFT RING ARE SEIZED

Eight men, alleged to be members of an automobile theft ring, were seized by Lieut. Gaynor and a squad from the motorcycle division in a raid last night on the Chicago Auto Construction company garage at 115 East 30th street.

The garage has been in operation since last May, reputedly dealing in wrecked cars, police said. Actually, it is charged, it dealt considerably in stolen cars. One automobile and a motor with its number filed off were found in the place. There were quantities of parts. The raid resulted from a search warrant issued by Judge John G. Cullen.

Those seized were Martin Levy, 34 years old, 5320 Drexel avenue and Louis Bloomberg, 35, of 7434 Champlain avenue, alleged owners; Buster Gardner, 27, and Vincent Powell, 24, both of 1830 Chicago avenue; Samuel Shapiro, 18, of 1823 South Millard avenue; Oscar Rich, 21, of 7150 Normal avenue; David Golden, 26, of 2420 West 32nd place, and William Gardner, 27, of 5140 Normal avenue.

KIDNAP SUSPECT IS SLAIN IN GUN BATTLE; 3 SHOT

Peoria Police Kill Pal of Gang Leader.

Chicago's drive on kidnapers brought police action in two cities yesterday. In Peoria Russell Hughes, suspected associate of kidnapers, was shot to death in a gun battle with two detectives who sought to question him. Both detectives and a bystander were wounded. Hughes was known as a former companion of Jack Klutas, who is being hunted by Chicago authorities as a leader of a gang that twice kidnaped James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, and has reaped a profit of $500,000 in a dozen abductions during the last three years.

In Oakland, Cal., Burr W. Poole was arrested as a suspect in the kidnaping of Brooks Hart, 22 year old son of a San Jose merchant. In his pocket was a note bearing the name of Klutas.

The Slaying of Hughes.

The killing of Hughes led to an investigation to determine if he had been involved with Klutas in any of the Illinois kidnapings with which the gang is charged. Three members of the abduction crew, Frank Souder, Gale Swolley, and Julian Jones, are now in custody in Chicago.

Hughes was killed by Chief of Detectives Fred Montgomery and Detective Robert Moran of Peoria. They said they recognized him as an ex-convict who formerly teamed with Klutas.

Montgomery and Moran saw Hughes in the doorway of a barber shop as they drove past.

"If that fellow didn't have a mustache I'd think he was Russell Hughes," Montgomery said to Moran. "Let's find out."

Gun Battle in Barber Shop.

They jumped from their car and followed Hughes into the barber shop, where they commanded him to hold up his hands. Hughes immediately drew two pistols and fired the detectives. Moran was struck in the body and Chief Montgomery in the shoulder, but they returned the gunman's fire. Alfred Jenkins, the bystander, was slightly wounded as Hughes, crouched behind a barber's chair, shot it out with the two policemen. They riddled him with bullets before he fell mortally wounded.

The fact that Hughes put up such a desperate battle suggested that he and Klutas might have been working together recently and he realized that he might be convicted of complicity in some of Klutas' crimes, the police said.

Suspect Seized in West.

Meanwhile the Chicago police were awaiting more news of the California arrest. Warning had been sent there that Klutas was supposed to be somewhere in California and the suspicion arose that he may have been responsible for the kidnaping of young Hart.

The Oakland police took Poole into custody after they had received anonymous telephone calls intimating that he was connected with the Hart kidnaping. Poole declared that the note found in his pocket bearing Klutas' name was a joke and that he had arranged his own arrest.

The note said: "Contact Hart's mother, Ph. Jack Klutas. Do not destroy."

Despite his claim of a joke, Poole was held on the probability that he knew the whereabouts of Klutas.

The Chicago authorities who are seeking Klutas and two other alleged members of the kidnaping gang, Edward La Rue and Edward Wagner, were out of the city yesterday.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, who had intended going before the grand jury and seeking indictments, was reported to have gone to Joliet with Pat Moche, private detective.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in Criminal court here in behalf of Swolley. Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court ordered that Swolley be brought before him at 10 o'clock today.

Held After Shooting

REUBEN JERKY.

Meyer Jerky, 3530 West 12th place, who is in the moving business, received word last night that three of his sons, Jack, 25 years old, Reuben, 19 years old, and Irving, 18 years old, were arrested yesterday at Toole, Utah.

The three were in an automobile collision which was followed by an altercation during which two men were shot.

A report to the Chicago police was that Jack Jerky admitted the shooting and explained that he thought a crowd that had gathered was going to lynch him and his brothers. The Jerky car had bumped a car driven by Ralph Kendrick of Grand Rapids, Mich., which is near the scene of the accident. Ferris Bowden, 22 years old, was wounded in the groin as he stepped from his home across the street, and Milton Orr, 32 years old, who also lived near where the collision occurred, was shot in the leg as he came out of his driveway, according to reports received here.

Detective bureau records show that Reuben Jerky was held to the grand jury in 1931 on a charge of robbery. No disposition of the case is shown.

Jack Jerky, the files reveal, was placed on probation in 1929 on an automobile larceny charge, and was sought a year later for violation.

MATE THREATENS SON, TORTURING HER, WIFE SAYS

Charging that her husband tortured her by threatening over the telephone to kill their son, Mrs. Isabel M. Michael, of 403 Green Bay road, Highland Park, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court at Waukegan.

The complaint stated that Michael "kidnaped" the son, George, 7 years old, on Oct. 29 and took him to an unheated cabin somewhere on the north shore. Later, with the boy by his side, Michael, it is charged, telephoned the threats to his wife, frightening not only her but the boy. He also threatened to kill Mrs. Michael, the bill stated.

Judge Ralph J. Dady, on reading the complaint, issued an injunction restraining Michael from molesting his wife or his son. The Michaels were married in 1925. They separated last Aug. 1.

EX-DRY AGENT SHOT; BLAMES BOOTLEGGERS

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Shot and beaten by two men who waylaid him at the entrance to an apartment building where he lived, Joseph Stancanski, 36, former federal prohibition agent, tonight told authorities his assailants were liquor runners.

The assault occurred when Stancanski stepped from his automobile. After slugging and kicking the victim, one of the men drew a pistol and shot Stancanski in the right shoulder.

He was taken to a hospital and questioned by detectives. Before his assailants escaped in an automobile Stancanski said he recognized them as bootleggers. He was dismissed from the prohibition force here last July.

REVEAL AFGHAN KING WAS SLAIN BY MAN HE SAVED FROM GALLOWS

(Copyright, 1933, by the New York Times.) LONDON, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Nadir Shah of Afghanistan was assassinated last week by a man he had pardoned for intrigue, it became known today in the first official account of the crime to reach London. The king was offiating at the awarding of school prizes in the palace courtyard Wednesday when five shots rang out from the crowd. The monarch was killed instantly.

The explanation of the deed lay in the fact that it was exactly a year after Ghulam Nabi Khan, the deposed King Amanullah's ambassador to Moscow, had been executed for conspiracy and high treason. Ghulam's appointment had not been renewed when Nadir Shah assumed the throne in 1929 and the embittered diplomat went to Berlin as a voluntary exile. He returned to Kabul last year, was convicted after a trial before the national assembly and was sent to the scaffold.

Abdul Khalil, the "low-class Afghan" who fired the shots, is the son of one of Ghulam's servants. He was arrested with his father last year for having participated in Ghulam's conspiracy and was also convicted, but was pardoned by King Nadir Shah.

AUTO SALESMAN SHOT BY YOUTH MAY RECOVER

Physicians at the Alexian Brothers' hospital declared yesterday that unless complications develop there was an even chance for the recovery of Arthur Weldenhoff, automobile salesman, shot Sunday night as he was demonstrating a car. Charles Thiele, the 17-year-old boy who wounded Weldenhoff and attempted to drive away with the automobile, is in a cell at the Hudson avenue police station. The two girls he had named in connection with his plan to get the automobile were released.

The girls are Miss Fern Lee, 23, and Miss Margaret Norton, 26, who were arrested at a railroad station as they were preparing to leave for Florida. They insisted that Thiele was simply a boy whom they had befriended because he was unemployed and hungry. Thiele charged that he sought the automobile because he wanted to drive his sweetheart to California, and named Miss Lee as the girl. This was denied, admitting that Thiele "seemed to have a crush on me," but declaring she had discouraged him and knew nothing of his intentions to steal the car.

Hudson avenue police freed the girls, being convinced that they had no part in the crime.

TRUCKMAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Edward Weiling, 1830 South Fifth-eight avenue, Chicago, a truckman employed by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a freight train.

DEMOCRATS FIND NEW ROOSOCRAT PARTY FORMING

Chicago Leaders Snubbed
by Administration.

BY PARKE BROWN.
While describing it as only a straw showing the direction of the wind, Democrats in Chicago and elsewhere in Illinois agreed yesterday that the appointment of Attorney William H. Hilly as judge of the United States District court here may be the last straw so far as friendly relations with Washington are concerned.

For weeks the Chicago Democratic leaders have brushed aside suggestions that there were steadily increasing signs of a persistent effort toward the setting up of a new political party combining the left wings of both the major old parties. But the selection of Attorney Hilly now has brought them to the point where, with a touch of bitterness, they have begun to speak alarmingly of the "Roosocratio" party.

See Move for Radical Favor.
Specifically, in addition to eroding the so-called "progressive" Republican senators for President Roosevelt's decision to appoint Hilly, they interpreted this judicial appointment as an attempt to hold the favor of the elements Hilly has represented, typified by city and state labor federations, the Chicago Teachers' federation, and the Public Ownership league.

If party relations between Chicago and Washington are strained to the breaking point the actual fracture may take form in a refusal of the organization here to pass on candidates whose names are submitted by Washington for approval. This refusal would be that expressions of disapproval now are being overridden as openly as in-dorsements have been.

Report Senators Overridden.
It is understood not only that Attorney Hilly lacked the organization indorsement but that approval or consent to his appointment had been definitely refused. United States senators don't talk about such things publicly, but it is stated on reliable authority that both Senator James Hamilton Lewis and Senator William H. Dieterich refused to approve Attorney Hilly's name.

The theory of party operation in such matters, as set forth in a formal resolution adopted by the Cook county Democratic central committee ten days ago, is that federal appointments shall be subject to the joint approval of those two senators and the national committee, P. A. Nash, Mr. Nash, it is said, refused to consider Attorney Hilly's name.

Newton Jenkins Behind Hilly.
Instead of having organization backing, the drive for this appointment was staged by Newton Jenkins of the old farmer-labor Republican school and Robert M. Adams. Working systematically they deluged the President and Attorney General Cummings with personal indorsements, some of them from persons whom the Chicago Democratic organization considers at least on the fringe of radicalism. Among these were Prof. Paul Douglas, Harry R. Booth, counsel for the Utility Com-

Mussolini Turns Economic Control Over to "Guilds"

ROME, Nov. 13. (AP)—The announcement that legislation affecting economic matters will be entrusted to the national council of corporations under a new and powerful guild system, was made by Premier Mussolini tonight at the end of a council meeting.

Hinting that even further reforms were coming, Il Duce said the grand council of Fascists, as the highest consulting party, would be called upon to decide on a "development of political and constitutional nature which will arise from the establishment of the practical operation of a new system."

Urges Abolition of Chamber.
The government controlled press and many speakers before the council meeting advocated the merger of the council with the chamber of deputies, or the total abolition of the chamber. Premier Mussolini's statement was made in the form of an order of the day which he personally read at the end of the session. Great public interest has centered in the speech which he promised to make at tomorrow's meeting and in which he will give a detailed explanation of the development.

In his order today he declared that a new cooperative system, "an instrument under the aegis of the state, will actuate the internal, organic and single discipline of productive forces with a view to the development of wealth and political power and the sumers' and investors' league, and Clarence Darrow.

This appointment was taken as possibly a last straw because of a prior series of snubs administered to the organization. All of the big jobs awarded to Illinois were assigned in disregard of the local party wishes. The Illinois chiefs had nothing whatever to do with the appointment of Harold L. Ickes as secretary of the interior; of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, who names himself as his home, as recovery administrator; of Donald R. Richberg as PWA counsel; of George N. Peek as agricultural recovery administrator; or of R. W. Lea as Johnson's assistant.

Three More Places at Stake.
Three more disturbed are Illinois Democrats over this accumulation of evidence of the lack of esteem in which they are held at Washington that they now have begun to worry over three approaching appointments in the department of justice headed by Attorney General Cummings who indorsed Attorney Hilly.

Those three places are the district attorneys in Illinois. In Chicago Dwight H. Green has been retained, although without senate confirmation, by agreement. But the state organization has selected Speaker Arthur Rood of Vandalla and Representative Howard L. Doyle of Decatur for the district attorneys in the southern and eastern districts.

The leaders now are beginning to wonder if these selections will be effective at Washington.

Bewildered by Ickes' Attitude.
Running through many of the discussions is bewilderment over the attitude of Secretary Ickes toward his home town and his home state. The puzzled ones can see nothing but political intent in his demand that he be allowed to replace the nine sanitary district trustees with a dictator if he is to approve the use of federal money for carrying out work well-being of the Illinois people. Nazzareno Meszetti, secretary general of the National Federation of Fascist Bank Syndicates, addressing the council in the presence of Il Duce, insisted there was an urgent need for giving the council law making powers.

He believed, he said, that this should be followed "at an opportune time" by a merger with the legislative body. He proposed that individual corporations, or "guilds," be represented in a new corporative and legislative body thus formed, which should take the place of the present chamber committee.

Plan "Segregation" System.
The new system will consist of a so-called category corporation, or guilds representing employing and agricultural classes in the divisions of agriculture, industry, trade, and perhaps even more comprehensive fields. They will come under the head of the national council and speakers have urged that they gradually be expanded to embrace such wide territory as to become representatives of practically the entire population.

When this has been accomplished, some speakers urged, legislative powers of the council will be widened to embrace all matters now handled by the chamber of deputies.

demanded by the federal government. They are less at a loss to explain Ickes' repeated public criticisms of the rate at which Gov. Horner is letting road building contracts under PWA allotments. The story of a personal grievance against the governor has been widely spread.

It is to the effect that soon after Horner's election, Ickes, then only a private citizen, called at the capitol in Springfield to extend his best wishes to the governor. A new office atatched advised the visitor to come back in a day or two or something like that. For that reason, it is said, Ickes on three occasions has rebuked the governor publicly.

Weaken Party Organization.
Such rebukes, the leaders say, all have the effect of weakening the standing of the administration and therefore of the party organization. They say that this, too, harmonizes with the growing belief that a Roosocratio party movement is under way. And they find further support for that theory in recent events in other parts of the country.

It is felt that the Democratic loss of the New York City hall, the largest local patronage pot in the nation, was due to Postmaster General Farley's fight against the regular organization as represented by Tammany. It is also felt that the Republican victory in Cleveland resulted from Farley's split with Congressman Martin L. Sweeney.

Chicagoans also are watching the situation closely in Massachusetts. Reports reaching here recently are that some degree of accord has been reached, but for months there have been complaints that James Roosevelt, son of the President, was the patronage dictator in the Bay state. The complaints were that the biggest two Democrats in the state, Gov. Joseph B. Ely, who also is national committeeman, and the senior United States senator, David I. Walsh, had been sidetracked.

VARECHA SNEERS AT WITNESS IN SANITY HEARING

Young Killer Normal, Say
Doctor and Policemen.

A sanity hearing was begun yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Benjamin P. Epstein to determine whether James [sic] Varecha, youthful rapist and murderer, must face trial a second time for the slaying of Frank Jordan in a south side robbery.

Varecha was convicted of the murder and sentenced to die in the electric chair, but the state Supreme court reversed the conviction. If found sane he must go to trial again on the murder charge. In case the jury decides that Varecha is insane he will be sent to Chester reformatory for life.

Varecha Normal, Doctor Says.
Dr. Harry R. Hoffman of the Cook County Behavior clinic, testified for the state that he had examined Varecha and found him to be a normal person.

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker and First Deputy Commissioner of Police John Alcock told of the confession made by Varecha after his arrest. They said that Varecha appeared to be normal and carefully corrected the confession before signing it.

Varecha, who sat listlessly during most of the hearing, showed his first sign of interest at the testimony of Policeman John O'Keefe. The policeman testified that he had spent several months in a cell near Varecha while posing as a prisoner in the county jail. He testified that Varecha had appeared normal in every respect and conversed rationally.

Varecha sneered, as he had during his previous trial, when he discovered that he had been tricked by the policeman.

Three More Sentenced.
Three sentences yesterday brought to 581 the number of criminals sentenced since the opening of the war on crime. Those sentenced are:

Albert Miller, 28 years old, colored, sentenced by Judge Thomas J. Lynch to 25 years in the penitentiary for the slaying of Mrs. Grace Mead, 29 years old, 1215 Fulton street. Miller drew a revolver and fired a shot at Mrs. Lulu Weaver, colored, in her apartment at 1314 Fulton street on Jan. 2, 1929. The bullet passed through the window and struck Mrs. Mead in her apartment across the street.

Charles Holzmier, 24 years old, and Ernest Bahr, 18 years old, sentenced by Judge Francis B. Allegretti to one year to life for the robbery of Jean Plackowski, 2780 Thomas street, on Sept. 13.

REVEAL LENIENCY OF COURTS TO SLAIN AUTO THIEF

Severe Penalties Might Have Prolonged Life.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 39; recovered, 50; stripped, 8 [from police records for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Sunday].

The leniency extended by Chicago's courts to John Lackowits, 19 years old, youthful automobile thief, who was slain by a policeman Sunday night, was revealed in the records of the Chicago crime commission yesterday. If Lackowits had been dealt with more severely by the law he might be alive today, although in jail, it was pointed out.

Lackowits was 18 years old when he first came to the attention of the authorities. Detected stripping a car, he was arraigned in June, 1932, in the Boys' court where his age and contention that it was his first offense gained him probation.

In Court Again in Four Months.
He was back before Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court in October, 1932, charged with the burglary of a garage and the theft of an automobile. He and four others, testimony revealed, were members of a band of auto thieves and strippers.

On this second arraignment Judge Brooks held Lackowits and his companions to the grand jury. But in the Criminal court, after indictment, Lackowits was again shown leniency. He was found guilty, but Judge John Prystalski imposed the comparatively light sentence of six months in the House of Correction instead of sending him to the penitentiary or the Pontiac reformatory. He served the sentence and was released.

Chased By Police Squad.
The last chapter in Lackowits' brief career was written Sunday night. He and two companions stole a truck from in front of Mount Sinai hospital, 2756 West 15th street. They drove the truck east in 18th street and made a quick turn north in Washtenaw avenue. This aroused the suspicions of Policemen Joseph Casey and a squad from the Marquette station.

The squad car chased the thieves and the latter jumped out while the truck was in motion. Policeman Casey fired one shot, which hit Lackowits in the back of the neck, killing him instantly. His companions escaped.

Municipal Judge John Gutknecht yesterday imposed a $200 fine on William Smith, 17 years old, 331 East 29th place, a Negro, who was arrested Nov. 8 as he was attempting to open the door of a locked automobile, and then set for Dec. 5 a hearing on a motion to vacate the sentence.

PACKING PLANT IS SURRENDERED BY STRIKE ARMY

Governor Forces Wage Arbitration.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Austin, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Owners of George A. Hormel & Co., Austin meat packers, regained control of the concern today and operations were resumed in the 5 million dollar plant, of which striking members of the "Independent Union of All Workers" had held forcible possession for 48 hours.

A settlement whereby the management agreed to take back all workers without discrimination, including the 600 who had driven out owners and supervisors with clubs Friday night, was accepted by the management and the union.

By terms of the settlement the Minnesota state industrial commission will arbitrate a third union demand for a 10 cent an hour wage increase, which demand the management had heretofore refused to submit to arbitration because, they said, the hearing of the demand would cost them the prohibitive sum of $500,000 a year.

Governor Forces Agreement.

It was the insistence of Gov. Floyd B. Olson, leader of the Farmer-Labor party, which impelled the management to submit the wage demand to the industrial board, whose members are the governor's own appointees. Jay C. Hormel, president of the company, signed the settlement at 4:40 a. m. after a meeting of the board of directors held from midnight on.

During the forenoon the plan of settlement was presented to the workers at a union meeting addressed by the governor and by Congressman F. H. Shoemaker, whose intervention Saturday swayed the strikers to permit operation of the plant refrigeration, thereby preventing destruction of 20 million pounds of meat worth $3,500,000.

In a remarkable speech to the 2,000 workers at the meeting the governor said he would not chide them for the mob attack in which they took possession of the plant Friday, but added that while he was in full sympathy with labor he would not uphold their illegal occupation of the property at others.

Minnesota industrial leaders, who have been alarmed by the governor's past policy of playing to strikers with promise of executive support, professed themselves reassured by the "moderation" of his position.

Governor Is Heckled.

Some of the workers, flushed with the success of their exploit in chasing out their bosses, received the governor's address with boos. Hecklers demanded an assurance from him that the arbitration board, in considering the wage increase demand, would not, instead, cut the scale below the present rate. He assured the hecklers that the board would scarcely take such a step.

"Judging from telephone conversations of Saturday night, there must have been a slight disturbance here," the governor began in a whimsical tone.

"I was unwilling to believe you good citizens would create any violence. My only apprehension was that some one might organize a laydown army and march to the plant and that there would be cutting of throats."

"I came here to make a settlement that would stick. To be frank, you were in an illegal position. You had taken over some one else's property and I suppose that in the heat of the moment such things can happen. I am not scolding you."

Cannot Defend Action.

"I am a friend of labor, but I can't be put in the position of defending labor when labor is in an illegal position. In other words, I can't be put on the spot."

At this point, the heckling started. The union leaders moved to eject the hecklers, but the governor insisted they be allowed to stay. One heckler wanted a guarantee that the arbitration board would not cut the present scale, which the union admits to be the highest in the industry.

"Since you struck for a higher wage, the board would scarcely cut your wages now," the governor said. "You can't strike against the findings

BECOMES MOTHER

MRS. DAVID K. BRUCE.

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Andrew Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, has a granddaughter. She was born here Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. David K. Bruce. Mrs. Bruce is the former Miss Mellon, only daughter of Mr. Mellon. A spokesman for Bruce said today that "everything is very satisfactory."

The couple were married in Washington on May 29, 1926, at a ceremony which was attended by President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge. At the time Bruce had just been appointed American vice consul at Rome, but two years later he gave up a diplomatic career to enter the financial world. He now is listed as a director in more than a half dozen corporations.

of that board. However, if the code gets into operation and you can prove the company violates it, then you can strike."

The governor got a moderate hand-clap, mingled with a few boos. It was Congressman Shoemaker, heretofore known as the most accomplished "rabble rouser" of the party, who got the biggest hand. Officials of the Hormel company are still marveling over the manner in which Shoemaker stepped into the situation Saturday, told the workers they were "damned fools," and persuaded them to return to work.

Acted to Save Food.

"I came in here at the invitation of two factions—the union and the business men," Shoemaker admitted. "I don't want to say that I don't want you to get more wages. I do. Four million dollars' worth of meat was at stake in this strike. I'd rather see you get that four millions than to see it go to hell in spoiled meat. If you had kept those coolers shut down it would have taken a month to replace the burst pipes, and you'd have been out of jobs that long."

Crowe's Widow

GETS LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

Letters of administration for the estate of Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district, were issued yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge John C. O'Connell, to his widow, Mrs. Marie Crowe, 544 Washington boulevard.

Mr. Caplan was informed that the value of the estate probably would not exceed $3,000, all in personal property. These assets consist of accounts receivable which attorneys for the family are trying to collect. Crowe died Aug. 28 of heart disease. He was 62 years old.

A bill to foreclose a mortgage on the Washington boulevard home is now pending in the superior court. The government has a lien for approximately $500,000 against the estate for income taxes, which it alleges Crowe evaded during the years of the "whoopie" era in the sanitary district, which led to his conviction of conspiracy and sentence to jail a year ago.

Hanged Self in Barnment.

Hugo Hine, 55 years old, hanged himself yesterday in the basement of his home in Cliff street, Willow Springs. Police said that Hine and his wife had been quarreling.

FAHRNEY GIRL'S NEWEST THRILL IDEA DISCLOSED

Phone Talk to Cuba Bares Plan to Join Chilean.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Elorella La Guardia, mayor elect of New York, joined the ranks of unsuccessful film writers today.

His scenario, "Dirty Politics," was rejected by a motion picture company and returned to him with the notation that the company's production program for the coming year had been already planned.

The scenario, company officials said, was submitted to them by Mayor Elect La Guardia more than a month ago.

It was believed that he would go to his home in Chile, but apparently Mrs. Elzner knew that he would stop in Cuba.

It was to this island that she directed her telephone calls from the hospital, making the first one last Saturday. Yesterday morning Dr. George, having received a message which she left for him, telephoned to her at the hospital.

During the conversation Dr. George said he would leave Cuba within a few days and fly to Kingston, Jamaica. He said his residence there would be the Myrtlebank hotel. Later, he said, he would go to Cristobal.

Agrees to Cristobal Meeting.

Mrs. Elzner then agreed to meet him in Cristobal. She indicated that she would travel to the Canal Zone in one of the Pan-American Airways flying boats.

Mrs. Elzner has not hidden her plans. She has expressed herself freely to nurses and to her physician, saying that she would not live with her new husband, Dr. Kern said his patient was bitter against her parents.

Doesn't Tell of Marriage.

It also was disclosed that in this conversation Mrs. Elzner did not inform Dr. George that she had married Elzner. Last Saturday Mrs. Elzner was reported to have told her former husband, Dr. Hugh Parker-Pickering, whom she divorced last summer, that she married Elzner to "spite" her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Fahrney, 400 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, because they refused to consent to a marriage with Dr. George.

BAILIFF DELAYS JAILING BARNETT FOR THREE DAYS

Says Legislator Told Him to Withhold Arrest.

James Z. Gabriel, chief bailiff of the Criminal court, has withheld since last Friday service of a capias for the arrest of Maurice Barnett, former jeweler, who was ordered to prison last week by the supreme court to serve one to five years for participation in a fake jewel robbery.

This was revealed yesterday as Barnett, who was sentenced 32 months ago, prepared to seek a pardon today in Springfield without having served a day in prison.

Gabriel said that he had withheld service on the capias because State Representative John R. McSweeney (Dem., 19th) had told him to do so. Asked what right the west side legislator had to issue such an order, Bailiff Gabriel said that the "representative said that the governor's secretary had said that service should be withheld until after the parole hearing."

Denied by Horner's Secretary.

Arthur O'Brien, secretary to Gov. Horner, denied that he had issued such an order and said that he had had no official contact with the case.

Representative McSweeney, who shares a Chicago law office with Attorney Harry A. Silverstein, yesterday admitted that he had telephoned Gabriel and communicated the wish of "the governor's secretary." He was told that Secretary O'Brien had denied issuing such an order.

"I couldn't say whether it was O'Brien or not," he said. "The case is in Silverstein's hands and I made the call for him, but my impression was that that was the way it was after he came back from Springfield."

Attorney Silverstein said that it was customary in all cases in which the defendant is at liberty to withhold service of a capias until after the board of pardons and paroles has had its hearing.

Prosecutor to Fight Plea.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller prepared yesterday to appear in Springfield and combat the appeal for parole.

Barnett, member of a family prominent in the jewelry business, was indicted in November, 1929, as the ring-leader of the conspiracy in which Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of a wealthy box manufacturer, allowed herself to be the victim of a fake jewel robbery in order to swindle an insurance company. Max Krakow, a jeweler, and Mrs. Price were convicted of participation in the conspiracy and served sentences of six months in jail.

WOODIN HOVERS ON EDGE OF JUMP FROM CABINET

Failing Health Is the Sole Reason.

with all his policies and will back them to the limit.

Some of Mr. Woodin's associates in the treasury, however, as well as some of the members of the federal reserve board, are not in accord with the program and do not believe the President's gold buying policy will work as he hopes it will. But so far as Mr. Woodin personally goes, it is learned that he was advised of Mr. Roosevelt's proposal to buy gold before it was announced and that he supported it at that time.

Events of the Day.

Now as to the events of this day, and the narrow escape Mr. Woodin is believed to have had from resigning.

Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, told newspapermen at the White House that Secretary Woodin was to make "an important announcement."

The reporters understood Mr. Early to mean that Mr. Woodin was to announce a new development in the gold buying program. But just before Secretary Woodin was to hold his press conference, he was summoned to the White House, and when he returned he had changed his mind about making his announcement.

Instead, he talked about his health. He conversed pleasantly about the seriousness of the throat infection which had taken seriously from his strength during the whole summer.

Just now, he said, he felt fine, but he added, and some present caught significance in the addition, that if he ever did resign, it would be solely because of his health, and not because of any clash in minds with the President.

Discourages Resignation Rumors.

Pressed about rumors of his impending resignation, he discouraged them.

"My vocal chords are all worn out saying that," he said, and he smiled at his gentle, winning smile as he did so. He emphasized his complete support of the President and promised that "the important announcement" would be forthcoming later in the week.

Unfortunately the newspaper men broadcast to the world and the ticker service tipsters broadcast to Wall street a report that the treasury secretary would elucidate upon the gold program of the administration later in the week. When Mr. Woodin learned of this he was perturbed to the point of making a personal visit to the press room in the basement of the treasury building.

Worried by Erroneous Report.

The secretary sat on one of the nice desks and smiling his two-toned shoes back and forth, he expressed his worry over having an erroneous impression broadcast.

Finally he authorized the news men to say that he still did intend to make an "important announcement" toward the end of the week, but that it had nothing whatever to do with the gold policy of the administration.

He did not say what it would have to do with, but it has now been said for him that he intends to give in to his doctors and his family, all with the blessing and sincere appreciation of President Roosevelt for what he has accomplished in his Washington stay.

The price of gold fixed by the Morgenthau-Jones-Woodin triumvirate today was $33.45, up 13 cents from the high of last Saturday.

The administration was gratified to find wheat and other commodities on a rising market, to see the dollar slump still farther, with the pound at a tied-record high, $5.16, and the franc at 6.32 cents, up 5 1/2 points and only 2 1/2 points shy of the record top, and to find the government bond market strong.

There were indications that the federal reserve banks are buying bonds at upshill prices, to prevent another slump such as worried financial experts last week.

Johnson Convinced by Tour That People Are with Him

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 13.—

"From the very beginning" of the national recovery program, its administrator, Hugh S. Johnson, said in an address here tonight, "there has been grumbling from some very wealthy and powerful interests."

In the past month, the NRA chief said in the final address of his midwest and southwest tour, "there has been a great deal of highly vocal criticism in some important newspapers. It is possible that there is some connection between the powerful grumbling and the newspaper criticism."

"Whether that is true or not," he added, "the fact remains that the thing to do with criticism is to go out and meet it."

"What I have seen has exceeded all expectations," Gen. Johnson said referring to his tour. "It is the first time I have had to observe this law in actual operation in the field."

There are a few complaints—some evidences of mistakes on our part in putting the law into execution—some injustices and some hardships.

"But," he continued, "we will try our best to correct them and to avoid similar mistakes in the future. But the big outstanding impression I am taking back is this: This is the people's law. They know that. They appreciate the good it has done and the harm it has averted."

"Upward of four million people have been taken out of the bread lines and off the relief list and are now on the job with a regular pay envelope coming to them every week. These gentlemen say that this would have happened anyhow. I don't think any of us really believe that. Our experience during the last four years has shown pretty conclusively that this depression would not cure itself."

"I suppose that in an indefinite number of years after a lot of people had starved to death, the world would somehow have struggled back to a normal state. But I think it is too much to believe that millions of people would have starved peacefully and patiently. The world's history tells us a very different story."

Denies All Censorship.

Saying he recently heard a charge that NRA had censored the radio, the administrator said "it seems to me that we have listened to the radio. Senator Hatfield of West Virginia on the NRA. I think such other distinguished Republican statesmen as James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, have been equally acrid. Never has anybody that I have ever heard of connected with the NRA demanded or proposed or suggested that arguments counter to the President's recovery program should be barred from utterance in the press, on the air, or anywhere else."

tion of Kreschel's conduct in office had been made before his dismissal, but Ickes' office would go no farther today than to say that it was not yet ready to make "any charges against Mr. Kreschel."

The other discharged official was Harry S. Berry, PWA state engineer for Tennessee. In making public the telegram dismissing him, Ickes also revealed a circular letter which Berry is reported to have sent to all civic bodies in Tennessee advising them that congress will exempt easy money borrowers from ever paying back their loans to the federal government.

Pointing out that loans were being made to every congressional district, Berry predicted that congress would vote to excuse all borrowers. Ickes insisted today that all loans are collectible in court and will be collected.

2 EASY MONEY STATE AIDS ARE FIRED BY ICKES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—

[Special.]—Dismissal and a list of scandal hung over the public works administration, guardians of the $3 billion 100 million dollars easy money fund, today, as Harold L. Ickes, public works administrator, peremptorily fired two of his state officials.

One of the officials today informed by telegram of his dismissal was Nels G. Kreschel, lieutenant governor of Iowa, who also has been serving as executive secretary of the easy money advisory board in that state.

HEED CRISIS OR BE RUINED, WALLACE WARNS CITY FOLK

Secretary Wallace gave only a brief discussion of the present emergency efforts to curtail cotton, wheat, tobacco, corn, and hog production, describing them as having been "remarkably successful." He admitted that "we have made hundreds of mistakes," but said that this was to be expected where so many thousand people were involved, and that "the surprise to me is that there have not been more mistakes."

The most hopeful sign, he declared, was that millions of people, and especially farmers, who had come to be independent operators and thinkers, were beginning to consider their operations from a national and international point of view.

"In spite of the malcontents," said Mr. Wallace, "they are beginning to get the feeling of a common goal voluntarily and intelligently approached."

But he added the warning that "it is selfish, bitter prejudice against the nation may find it necessary eventually as a matter of self-preservation to use compulsion. I hope that such measures will not be necessary because of the spirit of the American farmer as I know him."

After his address Mr. Wallace made an effort to allay the fears of the college leaders and corps of governmental employees who had gathered to hear him. He said that even though the administration is spending millions in reducing production it does not intend to relax scientific research and investigation. He said he intended to use his efforts to combat any tendency toward curtailing the expenditures for extension and educational work in agriculture.

"With all of this there is the hope of progress being made in this nation and among the nations toward a higher plane of spiritual life," he asserted. "We are moving toward the position where wealthy men cannot get more than 10 to 15 times the income of good workmen—which is in reality the heart of the new deal."

CHICAGO SEEKS U. S. FUNDS TO GIVE 53,000 JOBS

to Be Asked for City.

(Picture on back page.)

Mayor Kelly, Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt and six aldermen, meeting last night in Mr. Hewitt's office, drew up plans which will furnish 53,000 Chicagoans now on the relief rolls with jobs for three and a half months—provided the government will allot to the city $27,000,000 of the $400,000,000 easy money fund established by President Roosevelt for winter relief.

Their plan contemplates that more than $20,000,000 would go in direct payments to labor and less than $7,000,000 for supplies and materials.

Seek $4,000 for Street Work.

Of the 53,000 workers it is proposed to employ, $4,000 would be under the department of streets, $3,000 under the engineering bureau, which would repair the water system and pave bridges; 4,000 under the building department; 4,000 under the parks, playground, and aviation department, engaged in improving the parks and aviation fields, and 3,000 under miscellaneous classifications.

The Mayor, Gov. Horner and President Harnett Wheaton of the county board will leave for Washington this afternoon to present a unified plea for a share of the government money.

The governor hopes that altogether 150,000 jobs will be made in the state. The county board has already determined that it will request $2,216,415 for its purposes.

Proposed City Work.

Among the things which the city hopes to have done are the following: Renovation of all public buildings, especially police and fire stations; repair of lamp posts, tearing down of the old county jail building on Illinois street, wrecking of dilapidated buildings all over the city, resurfacing of streets on a grand scale, replacing of 63 miles of crooked block streets with asphalt; painting of bridges and the construction of new safety islands, street signs, and traffic control lights.

Commissioner Hewitt said that the plans contemplated paying the union scale of wages, probably four days a week per man, with an eight hour day.

He and the mayor added that further plans were being outlined and the program might at the finish offer work for 75,000 men in all.

The city council is to consider and approve the plans this morning, so that the delegation will have full power to act in the national capital.

Horner Replies to Ickes.

Gov. Horner, before leaving Springfield at midnight for Chicago, issued a statement in which he replied vigorously to a mild reprimand by Public Works Administrator Ickes, who suggested that the state of Illinois was dilatory in presenting plans for spending its share of easy federal money. "From your recent letter," the governor said, in an open letter to Ickes, "concerning our federal road program, it is apparent your information on the subject is one month behind. Up to Nov. 8 Illinois had awarded contracts for $1,149,532 on the federal public works program. On Nov. 8 additional bids were received for $905,240, on which contracts for $226,210 have since been awarded, and the balance is to be awarded in a few days."

"We are receiving additional bids on Nov. 15 for work estimated to cost $1,025,000, which we expect to have under contract by the end of this week, bringing total contracts awarded to over $3,000,000."

More Awards Planned.

The governor also pointed out that additional awards contemplated before Feb. 1 would raise the total amount of road work with federal loans to more than $7,000,000. Then he added:

"A fair investigation by you of the speed with which our highway department has proceeded would apprise you of the injustice and unfairness of your public statement. The letter you sent me, and which you gave to the press, clearly indicates that you wrote it upon information which is incorrect."

Secretary Ickes had stated that only

Lewis Backs Superhighway; Group Going to Washington

BY HAL FOUST.

United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis yesterday jumped into the middle of the fight for a federal loan to launch construction of an elevated highway system for Chicago. In telegrams from Washington, D. C., he indicated he was meeting obstacles, but had plans to overcome them. Senator William H. Dyer, D. C., indicated he was likewise proposed to support the move.

A delegation of civic and political leaders will leave Chicago this afternoon for an interview tomorrow with Secretary of the Interior Ickes on the prospect of obtaining "easy money" to relieve unemployment with the construction of this permanent improvement.

Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly and President Wheaton of the county board will be on the train en route for an appointment with the federal relief commission. The governor and Mr. Wheaton said they would also aid in the elevated highway petition.

The mayor said he would map his plans in conferences on the train.

Finds Board Ready to Investigate.

Senator Lewis, responding to a questionnaire on the elevated highway proposal circulated to all Illinois congressmen by THE TRIBUNE, wired from Washington as follows:

"I am assured that the board of investigation and management would investigate how far under the law it can go in the matter of the elevated highway. Please send me such written specifications as you have that I may present to department engineers."

A telegram from the senator, giving

$145,000 of the total of $17,500,000 allotted to Illinois had been put under contract by the state.

The county board's requests, as formulated yesterday, included $1,508,415 to be expended wholly on labor in the forest preserves.

Charles G. Sauer, superintendent of the preserves, drafted a plan under which employment would be given to 7,737 men for a three-month period this winter. The principal portion of the work would be extension of the automobile control plan.

The principle of the automobile control plan is simply the furnishing of adequate and convenient accommodation for cars so that the millions of visitors to the preserves each year may enjoy them and at the same time inflict minimum damage on the landscape.

Frank Venack, superintendent of the county infirmary at Oak Forest, and Eric Hall, county architect, gave the commissioners a list of projects costing a total of $408,000, which might be financed out of federal funds at the infirmary. These were the construction of a morgue, to cost $60,000; building two wings on the nurses' home there, at a cost of $100,000; construction of the infirmary's water system with city of Chicago mains, at a cost of $125,000; a 3,000,000 gallon water reservoir, to cost $75,000; and general rehabilitation of present buildings, to cost $50,000.

Willoughby Walling, chairman of the executive committee of the Cook County School of Nursing, operated in connection with the county hospital, suggested the construction of a laundry at the hospital, at a cost of $350,000.

In addition to proposals on behalf of the state government, Gov. Horner will take to Washington those made by the sanitary district trustees and the Lincoln park board for their share of the federal fund.

Further assurance of cooperation, was received by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, who is calling together the delegation moving upon Washington.

Victor A. Glendon, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, notified the club that he was unable to represent union labor in the delegation, but that he "will endeavor to be helpful in other ways." It is estimated that 20,000 men could be employed in the construction.

C. A. C. to Send Representative.

George W. Rosetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, told Mr. Hayes that he was "enthusiastic about the plan" and that the association would have a representative in the delegation.

"I'm for the plan and will be glad to help," said Gov. Horner. "Director Klingery will not be able to go to Washington; he's busy in preparing detailed plans for the construction."

Representative Fred A. Britten, who arranged the appointment with Secretary Ickes, is already in Washington. Other congressmen with reservations on this afternoon's train include P. H. Moynihan of Chicago, James Simpson Jr. of Chicago and Lake county, and Frank R. Reid of Aurora.

Civic Leaders to Make Plea.

Others who will make the Washington trip are Lester J. Norris of St. Charles, president of the Fox Valley federation; George W. Fleming, district governor of Kiwanis clubs; and Aid. John A. Madden (18th), chairman of the council traffic committee; and Maj. George A. Quinlan, Cook county highway superintendent.

The latest of the large number of congressmen to respond to THE TRIBUNE's questionnaire on the federal loan proposal was W. W. Arnold of Robinson, Ill.

"I will be glad to cooperate in securing loan from federal government for elevated highway system of Chicago," was his brief, decisive telegram.

SANITARY BOARD O. K.'S TERMS OF 8 MILLION LOAN

Asks U.S. for $4,690,000
More Today.

Trustees of the sanitary district at their meeting yesterday accepted the terms of the public works administration contract for the allotment of $8,000,000 in federal funds for the completion of five sewage disposal projects. The agreement was then forwarded to Washington and Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district, predicted that work would start by next week.

According to the contract with the government, the PWA will purchase $8,000,000 worth of sanitary district bonds, bearing 4 per cent interest. The district will turn over the bonds to the government in varying amounts as the money is needed for construction. Vouchers for work done will be approved not only by officers of the district, but also a resident federal works engineer and auditor.

Second Application Today.

After the contract had been approved Philip Harrington, chief engineer for the district, announced that a second subapplication for $4,690,000 to complete four sections of the west side sewer system would be filed with the local PWA advisory board today.

The $8,000,000 allotment, which is for work already started but halted in February of 1933 because of lack of funds, is a subapplication for a part of the original request for $120,000,000 of federal easy money.

Lloyd H. Landau, solicitor for the PWA, during his conferences with the trustees last week stated positively that the district would not be given the full loan. As an alternative he suggested that the district submit a third subapplication for work that could be completed within the next two years.

Proposes Plan for $28,501,000.

Harrington explained to the trustees the projects that would fall within Landau's category. Two sections in this third subapplication would cost $28,501,000.

The allotment of the $8,000,000 will put 4,690 men to work directly and indirectly, and they will remain in employment for the next eighteen months.

STATE COLLECTS 8 MILLION SALES TAX IN 3 MONTHS

Procedure Explained by Finance Director.

Joseph J. Rice, state finance director, yesterday made public figures showing that a total of $8,284,150 was collected during the first three months of the 3 per cent retailers' occupational sales tax.

As the tax payments for a given month are due on or before the fifteenth of the following month, the figures to date do not include collections for October, but collections made in August, September and October for the preceding months. Collections in these months were:

August ..... $2,211,133.84

September ..... 2,078,377.19

October ..... 3,994,638.97

Total ..... $8,284,150.00

Mr. Rice outlined the method of collection and the disposition of these tax funds.

Each Retailer Numbered.

Immediately after the passage of the tax the finance department prepared blank forms to be used in making tax returns and these were made available throughout the state at the offices of county clerks, trade associations, associations of commerce, and elsewhere.

"Upon receipt of the retailer's return, the department assigned him a number and issued a certificate of registration to be posted in a conspicuous place.

A staff of office auditors constantly checks the tax returns and a staff of field officers make regular surveys at the retail stores, according to Mr. Rice. The field officers can ascertain whether a return has been made by the presence or absence of the sticker certificate. If the retailer does not display the sticker he is immediately served with notice.

The tax funds are turned over to the state treasurer, who is obliged under the appropriation bill passed by the 5th general assembly to make them available to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission until Jan. 1.

LICENSES OF TWO MILK DEALERS ARE REVOKED BY THE AAA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—

The most potent weapon of farm administrators to force compliance with marketing agreements was applied today with the revocation of licenses for two dealers to sell milk in the Philadelphia area.

They forbade F. S. Miley of Ephrata, Pa., and Stanley R. McCoy of Hagerstown, Md., to continue their milk business because they were charged with violating the Philadelphia milk marketing agreement by paying farmers less and charging consumers more than the specified price schedules.

The orders become effective Nov. 20, and if the two distributors do not obtain reinstatement they will be subject to a fine of $1,000 for each day's operation.

It was the farm administrators' first exercise of this power. It has under consideration charges involving more than 100 individuals and concerns accused of violating the Chicago marketing agreement, and these Chicago cases are expected to result in several revocation orders within the next 10 days.

Thereafter the receipts will be utilized for the reduction of property taxes.

Explain Additional Legislation.

Mr. Rice explained why it was necessary for the state legislature to pass a special session to pass a bond issue measure to obtain funds enough to keep the relief stations open, even though nearly $3,000,000 of retail occupational tax money is rolling in monthly.

Total relief expenditures through the relief commission are about $6,000,000 a month. The federal relief administration will advance only half as much as the state advances. Illinois, therefore, must produce about $4,000,000 a month, or $1,000,000 more than the tax brings in to get the $3,000,000 federal hand

GIVE SOME HEED TO SIDE TOPICS OF RECOGNITION

Religion and Politics of Russia Pondered.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Conferences on Russian recognition reached a stalemate today while each side turned to a study of the progress made thus far and prepared for further conversations on such topics as religious and political propaganda and the settlement of America's financial claims against the Soviet.

This was not interpreted officially, however, as meaning that the prospects for recognition have become dimmed, since the White House officially announced that the Russian negotiations are proceeding gradually and favorably. The hope was expressed at the White House that the conference would be concluded by Friday when President Roosevelt is scheduled to leave for Warm Springs, Ga.

Welcome Sign to Litvinov.
At the state department officials were slightly less optimistic on the time that might be required to complete the conversations between Maxim Litvinov, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, and American officials, headed by the President. But it was thought that Mr. Roosevelt, as personal director of the negotiations, might have guided the situation more accurately than his aids.

President Roosevelt laid the Russian question to one side today while devoting himself to studies and conferences on a variety of other topics and leaving a recapitulation of the work done thus far on Russian recognition to the state department.

M. Litvinov hereafter must take the initiative, for the White House and state department have been waiting that their doors are open to the Russian emissary at any hour and that future engagements will be of his seeking.

MOSCOW HINTS AT HITCH
BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 13.—The slowness of the negotiations between President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinov, Soviet Russian foreign commissar, concerning American recognition of Russia has begun to alarm Moscow. The Soviet press, after a week of silence, has begun to publish long articles hinting that Litvinov may fail to "bring home the bacon."

Serious differences have arisen at Washington, according to an explanation by the Moscow foreign office published in Izvestia, which hints at the possibility of failure of Litvinov's mission.

A number of appeals addressed to influential friends of the bolsheviks in the United States were cabled from Moscow yesterday, urging these friends to take immediate steps to counteract the agitation against recognition of Russia, which Moscow insists must be unequalled.

Says Russia Is Adherent.
Mentioning that Litvinov carried communist party instructions authorizing him to agree to negotiations on disputable differences only after recognition was accorded, the Moscow foreign office expressed surprise, according to Izvestia, that certain groups in the United States desire to settle these questions before recognition is granted.

Persons favoring the establishment of normal relations wonder if the American state department realizes the firmness of the Soviet government's position and its determined unwillingness to discuss debts and other disputable questions before recognition is obtained, a Soviet spokesman said in the article.

He suggested that if the United States hopes to persuade the Soviet government to accept credit facilities to make large purchases in the American market, then these questions must be made the subject of later negotiations.

British-Soviet Trade Pact Delayed by Row Over Debt

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Nov. 13.—American holders of financial claims against Russia might have had one eye on Washington and another on the British house of commons this afternoon when the foreign office was interpolated on the possibility of collecting $66,000,000 awarded Lena Goldfields, Ltd., against the Soviets.

In many respects the situation is similar. The English company has a claim against the Soviet government which was established by an international tribunal. A trade treaty with Russia is now being negotiated in Great Britain, while negotiations which may lead to a trade treaty are also going on in the United States between President Roosevelt and Foreign Commissar Litvinov.

See Danger to U. S. Claimants.
But the hopelessness of the Goldfields award is that recognition of the Soviets has long been an accomplished fact and the Lena company is powerless to proceed in the British or any other courts to collect. This presumably is the predicament in which American claimants will find themselves if the United States recognizes the Soviet government.

Capt. Anthony Eden, undersecretary of foreign affairs, was asked whether anything has been done by Russia about paying the bill and if not what effect this would have on present negotiations for a temporary trade agreement.

The Soviet government has made no further offer regarding the award and the position remains as stated last March," Eden replied. "The importance which the government attaches to the settlement of this matter has been impressed upon the Soviet representatives during the present trade negotiations, but no further proposals have so far resulted from the discussions."

Eden revealed that the Lena case is cutting a big figure in the present talks. The discussions have been dragging on for months without effect, due, in part, no doubt, to British insistence that the Lena company receive the money before the treaty is signed.

Russians Offer $5,000,000.
The award was made in the summer of 1930. The Lena company's Russian concession contract provided for an arbitration court to settle all disputes between the company and the Soviet government. The court was to be composed of one representative from each country and a third super-arbitrator.

The British nominated Sir Leslie Scott and the Russians named Tshelenov. The third member was Dr. Otto Stutzer of Germany. Tshelenov never sat with the court, and after the finding it was announced that Moscow had made an offer of $5,000,000.

While Litvinov is still in Washington on his quest for recognition of the Soviets, the British government is dealing with a case similar to that which arose when a blast of orders on how to overthrow the American government was issued to American communists just before Litvinov left Russia. Eden revealed that the British ambassador in Moscow has been instructed to obtain a full report on the communist Internationale's issue of detailed plans for a subversive campaign to communist agents in India.

WAR HATES RISE IN FRANCE; TWO STATUES RUINED
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PARIS, Nov. 13.—The right and left in France have declared war on each other's statues. Tonight there were two casualties—Aristide Briand, apostle of peace and idol of the moderate left, and Paul Deroulede, militant nationalist of pre-war days.

Deroulede was decapitated and lost an arm. Briand was more fortunate. One of his companions on the monument was demolished by acid. In both cases the vandals gave themselves up to the police.

The enemies of Deroulede, who calmly hacked the head and arm off the statue in the busy Place St. Augustin with a hammer, were two conscientious objectors—Gerard Leretour and Albert Daumery.

The Briand monument was at Pacy-sur-Eure. It was inaugurated with great ceremony by Premier Albert Sarraut on Armistice day. Charles Paul, a nationalist who did not like Briand's peace policy, threw acid on it and destroyed a small bronze figure in the rear. Damage was estimated at 25,000 francs [about $1,500].

On the day before Armistice day the nose and moustache were chipped off a Briand monument at Trebeurden.

CUBAN TROOPS DESERT; LEAD NEW REBELLION

Island Is Plunged Into Chaos; Many Slain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 13.—Worried over the rapid increase of rebel outbreaks in Cuba, President Grau San Martin and Col. Fulgencio Batista, head of the army, were closeted tonight at the palace to discuss ways and means to end the uprisings. Sniping continued here today. Three sailors and two soldiers were killed. Five civilians were wounded. One hundred and seventy persons were imprisoned. Two blasts rocked Havana shortly after 10 o'clock tonight. One bomb exploded at the Atenas club, the largest Negro social club in the city. Five persons were seriously injured and serious damage was done to the building. Another bomb exploded almost simultaneously at La Jela de Cuba, one of Havana's largest department stores. Damage was estimated at $25,000.

Several Hundred Soldiers Desert.
Col. Batista claims that three-fourths of the army has remained loyal, but he admitted today that "several hundred soldiers" have deserted and are now leading the guerrilla warfare in the interior of the island.

The rebel groups, which are operating in bands of about 50 each, were reported tonight to be virtually in control of Oriente province and parts of Camaguey and Santa Clara provinces. Heavy fighting was reported at Holguin in Oriente, where 28 men, including 17 rebels and 11 soldiers, were said to have been killed or wounded. Thirty rebels and loyalists were reported killed in Santa Clara province.

Grau to Increase Army.
President Grau tonight ordered the entire army and navy mobilized and increased to war strength. He announced that 4,000 jobs as soldiers are

Unless you have money to BURN

YOU don't want to take a chance with your family's safety, your property, or your purse. Safe coal heat costs least. Don't take our word for it.

For only five cents you can get the facts on costs from your government. Write U.S. Department of Commerce for its booklet, "Questions and Answers for the Home Fireman," published this year. Turn to page 31. You will read that a ton of coal is equivalent to 168 gallons of oil or 216 therms of gas. That means this: If you burn 10 tons of coal you would need 1,680 gallons of oil or 2,160 therms of gas to get the same amount of heat. At $10 a ton, coal heat would cost $100.

At 5¢ cents a gallon, oil would cost $96.60 plus 6% interest on your investment in an oil burner, $18.00; the gas or electricity needed to operate the burner, $25, and a yearly service charge of about $25. Besides the burner can not be expected to last over ten years so you must charge off a tenth of its cost each year, about $30. The total comes to $194.60.

In Chicago, gas heat is charged at these prices:
First 2 therms (monthly for 8 months) at $0.58 a therm : : $ 4.64
Next 24 therms (monthly for 8 months) at $0.158 a therm : : 30.34
Balance 1952 therms at $0.07 a therm 136.64
Plus the cost of burner at $3 a month 27.00
$198.62

In Chicago suburbs the cost of gas is about $10 higher. Unless you have money to burn, unless you want to take a chance with safety, stick to coal or coke. For full weight and honest grading, buy it from a member of this Association.

JAPAN CLASHES WITH RUSSIA OVER ARMS CONTROL

Tokio Spurns Proposal for Supervision.

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—(P)—Japan and Russia clashed today in disarmament diplomacy when Representative Sato of Japan declared it was extremely difficult for his country to accept a control of armaments, and especially automatic investigation.

Representative Stein of Soviet Russia insisted that a genuine control must have universal application and that "not a single country or region which neighbors Russia should be exempted." The word "region" was regarded as an allusion to the Japanese created state of Manchukuo.

The clash was heard in the steering committee, which is endeavoring to carry forward the work of the disarmament conference despite the withdrawal of Germany from its deliberations and the announced lack of interest in its work by Italy and Hungary.

Asks Return of Davis.
An appeal to Americans at home to keep the United States vigorously on the job of disarmament and to return Norman H. Davis, American delegate, to Geneva was voiced by Mary M. Woolley, veteran American campaigner for international peace, to the inter-organization council on disarmament.

The Italian government's contention that the present disarmament conference is sterile without the presence of Germany was backed up by Hungary today. As a result, observers said they believed the present negotiations were doomed to failure in their existing form.

The Hungarian delegation announced that it would strictly maintain the attitude of an observer. Italy announced that it would ignore everything approved by the great powers since July 15, when Germany accepted the original plan of Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain as a basis for discussion.

Henderson Threatens to Quit.
LONDON, Nov. 13.—(P)—Arthur Henderson in a personal message read to the house of commons tonight threatened to quit as president of the world disarmament conference unless the governments change their "attitude" regarding armaments.

The announcement came as a sensation and as a climax to a debate on disarmament in which the British government's policy at Geneva was severely criticized.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Labor party colleague of Henderson, wound up the debate for the opposition and read the veteran peace worker's message.

"I have not decided to resign," it said; "but the present situation is most unsatisfactory. Unless there is a change in the present situation I cannot continue as president of the conference. No results are likely to

Austrian Bomb Throwers Defy Martial Law; Guard Injured

LOEBEN, Austria, Nov. 13.—(P)—The serious injury of a Fascist home guard from a bomb tossed by students early this evening developed what appears to be the first clear case of violence punishable under the Dollfus martial law in force throughout the nation.

Police immediately arrested several students of the State Mining college who were reported to have tossed the bomb at the home guard.

They face a confinement under the martial law put into effect by Chancellor Dollfus last Friday which restored the death penalty for murder, arson, and "all acts of violence." The law was invoked in connection with the 10th anniversary of the republic yesterday.

Concentrate Fascist Troops.
VIENNA, Nov. 13.—(P)—The concentration of thousands of pro-Fascist home guard troops in Vienna caused be achieved by the attitude adopted by the delegation at recent meeting, and it is useless for me to remain here for months unless the attitude changes.

A vote of censure moved by the Labor party on the grounds that the government's disarmament course did not represent the will of the people as expressed in recent elections, was defeated, 408 to 54. David Lloyd George's Independent Liberals voted with the Laborists. Sir Herbert Samuel's Liberals abstained from voting.

The government took the stand that it is up to Germany to make a move to ease the peace of Europe.

Prime Minister MacDonald himself said Britain is marking time, but warned that it is ready to point a finger of blame at any country responsible for a breakdown in peace efforts.

The premier said it was still too early to determine what results yesterday's plebiscite and Reichstag elections in Germany will have on the arms impasse.

Appeals to Germany to Return.
"I feel perfectly certain the house would not wish the British government to say today by what precise means it is going to use the existing unfortunate situation to get an international agreement," MacDonald said.

"We ask the Germans to come in, not at the end, but now. We want Germany to be its own representative and its own spokesman."

"There must be an international agreement and if failure comes the British government's duty will be to make it clear to the world on whose shoulders the blame for a break must rest."

MacDonald reaffirmed British loyalty to the league of nations as "the only existing machine for international cooperation," and declared that Great Britain could not admit, because Germany had withdrawn, that disarmament work ought not to proceed.

INQUEST EXONERATES SLAYER.
A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Emil Gubisch of Lansing, in the killing of Andrew Farber, also of Lansing. The jurymen held that he had fired on Farber in self defense and a verdict of justifiable homicide was returned.

GERMANY HAILS POLITICAL UNITY; EYES NEIGHBORS

Hitler and Hindenburg Talk About Future.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BERLIN, Nov. 13.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler called on President Paul von Hindenburg today to "report the result of yesterday's election victory and confer on political questions."

"President von Hindenburg expressed his deepest gratitude and sincere admiration for the achievement of political unity in Germany by Hitler," an official communiqué said.

The nature of the political conversation between the president and chancellor was not divulged.

Press Glorifies 'Unity.'
Germans today congratulated one another on the "fulfillment of the thousand year old dream of German unity." The press glorified that "the world is staggered by this new German unity."

It seemed oblivious of the fact that most foreign newspapers predicted an overwhelming victory for Hitler since his recent victory toward the Versailles treaty, the league of nations, and the disarmament conference has welded the Germans together closer than ever before.

With other nations awaiting Hitler's first step after his triumph, in which 661 Nazi picked Reichstag deputies were elected and an amazing endorsement was given Hitler's foreign policy, semi-official German pressmen took in reply to Germany's great demonstration for peace and whether they will heed the cry for equality with other nations as voiced by nearly 41,000,000 Germans.

"Discussions in the French chamber of deputies will show whether France is still rejecting the hand proffered by Germany," a government spokesman said. "If she does, nobody in the world can be surprised if Germany draws logical conclusions."

will be announced officially in the next few days, it was learned tonight on reliable authority. The chancellor, it was said, yielded to the arguments of various members of the cabinet.

While the abandonment of concentration camps has previously been indicated, the overwhelming pro-Hitler ballot yesterday in more than 80 concentration camps undoubtedly supplied a weighty argument that the proper time had come for a gesture that would, besides favorably affecting domestic sentiment, also go a long way toward placating foreign opinion.

ROOSEVELT ASKS LOW RUM TAX TO RUIN BOOTLEGGERS

Hopes U. S., State Levy
Won't Be Above $3 Gal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt and his interdepartment committee on liquor question were reported today to have decided that the federal liquor tax must be kept extremely low, probably $2 a gallon, to keep liquor prices down and thus stamp out bootlegging.

Fearful that a high federal tax may encourage the hoarding on of high state taxes, the President and his advisers are said to have agreed that the "overall" tax must not be greater than $3 a gallon. To this end the federal tax will be kept low, it was said.

Revenue Is Secondary.

Instructions already have been sent to the experts of the treasury and other departments that revenue must be a secondary consideration in drawing up liquor taxes. The government is represented as willing to forego a few million dollars in revenue during the first post-prohibition year in order of starting the return of liquor out right.

Wiping out of the bootlegger menace has become one of the controlling interests of the federal government, it was said. A combined state and federal tax load of more than $3 a gallon, it is believed, would furnish a "protective tariff" for bootleggers by putting up prices which consumers would have to pay for legitimate liquor.

Harrison Wants Simple Bill.

A similar note was struck today by Senator Pat Harrison (Dem., Miss.), chairman of the senate finance committee, after calling on the President at the White House.

"The things we want to do must," Senator Harrison said, "be to raise the maximum revenue without perpetuating bootlegging."

Senator Harrison said already he had designated a subcommittee under the chairmanship of Senator William H. King (Dem., Utah), to make a study of liquor legislation. The finance subcommittee will meet early in December to hold hearings. "I think we ought to shoot as quickly as possible on liquor legislation and make the bill as simple as possible," Senator Harrison said.

Pinchot for State Stores.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 13.—(P)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today asked the legislature, in special session, to control the sale of liquor through state operated stores and to apply the profits to unemployment relief, emergency aid to schools and old age assistance.

The governor estimated that a tax of $2 a proof gallon on all liquor manufactured and in storage before national prohibition repeal would bring in immediately $25,000,000, and that a tax of $1 on each gallon made after repeal would give the state $25,000,000 annually.

Pinchot, a lifelong dry, bluntly asked the legislature to "let political considerations go hang, and to join with me in a single minded effort to serve the commonwealth."

The liquor control bill, introduced after he spoke, specifically states that the measure is designed to "prohibit forever the open saloon." It prohibits bars and makes it unlawful to display or mix drinks in public dining rooms.

Minnesota Board Reports.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 13.—(P)—The executive committee of the state liquor control study commission announced today it would recommend sale of liquor in package form by drug stores only and by the drink in certain places under licensing by a state administrator. The sale by the drink, under license regulations, will be in hotels, restaurants, clubs, dining cars, and passenger airplanes.

If you think an operation is always the only way to escape the misery of torturing Piles it's because you haven't heard of the harmless internal medicine discovered by a western physician.

After years of study Dr. J. S. Immediately the doctor set to work to find the remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROD.

That every Pile sufferer may benefit by Dr. Leonard's discovery, and so there will be no doubting or delay. Walgreen and all druggists are authorized to guarantee HEM-ROD. No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROD made in the U. S. will show you the safe, clean way to get rid of your Pile misery or money back.

N. Y. LIQUOR PERMIT SEEKERS BREAK DOOR DOWN IN BIG RUSH

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The turbulent scenes of the early days of the beer license rush were reenacted today at the city beverage control board office by applicants for licenses to sell wines and distilled spirits.

Three thousand men—there were a few women among them—struggled so hard for front positions that they finally carried away one of the office doors. Additional policemen were called to restore order.

At the end of the day, Nelson R. Ruttenberg, counsel to the state board, revealed that thousands of the liquor license seekers were destined to be disappointed. He said it was the belief of the board that the limited number of licenses printed to date would meet all the needs of the liquor industry after repeal.

The state alcoholic beverage board has prepared only 7,000 licenses for stores, 6,000 for restaurants, and 1,750 for hotels, and 1,000 for clubs for the entire state of New York, yet in three days requests for retail liquor stores alone totaled more than 3,000.

Mr. Ruttenberg pointed out that restrictions as to the distance of 1,500 feet between wine and liquor shops, and other regulations would compel the board to reject great numbers of the applicants. In any event, he said, the present supply of licenses should last until the end of the year.

Two of the rules set up in the liquor control code were virtually nullified today. The board no longer demands that applicants show store leases to obtain blank options on the premises to be used for dispensing wines or liquors were accepted.

The other rule that was loosened was on the providing of bonds. Originally the code called for the filing of a bond with each application, but since the state insurance department has not yet approved a bond rate, a deposit slightly in excess of the probable premium was accepted.

Says Good Liquor Should Sell 10 to 15c a Drink

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Good liquor should sell in New Jersey at 10 to 15 cents a drink, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, the state's Democratic boss, declared today in a letter to Thomas N. McCarter, president of the state beverage commission. The way to achieve this, he said, is to drive out the bootlegger by levying high taxes and by requiring that all liquor, even two ounce drinks, be sold in glass containers sealed with federal and state stamps.

PRESBYTERIANS QUIZ CHIEF OF DRY LEAGUERS

Failure Discussed.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Who's to blame for the failure of prohibition? This question was raised at a meeting of the Chicago Presbyterian in the Fourth Presbyterian church yesterday, with the result that Dr. George B. Safford, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league, left an accusing finger pointing at the churches and some of the 120 Presbyterian pastors in attendance pointed at the Anti-Saloon league.

While no action was taken against the league by the presbytery, it was reported that the presbytery now unofficially regards the responsibility for the advancement of the temperance cause to be up to individual churches. During his address before the presbytery Dr. Safford declared that the prohibition cause would have to be begun all over again. He said that liquor never will be controlled, because the liquor interests do not wish it to be controlled.

The Safford speech was challenged at its conclusion. Col. J. E. Griffiths of Berwyn, retired army chaplain, said he had heard similar speeches many years ago.

"Why does it appear to me and to others," he asked, "that the Anti-Saloon league sat down as soon as prohibition came?"

"We never sat down," Dr. Safford replied.

When asked from the floor of the presbytery as to how the confidence of dry forces can again be placed in the league, Dr. Safford replied that the deserting drys had been misled.

"They have been reading The Chicago Tribune and other wet papers and never got the facts," he said.

PROGRESSIVE MINERS ASK COURT ORDER TO OPEN JOBS TO THEM

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 13.—(P)—Preliminary legal skirmishes today marked the opening efforts of the Progressive Miners of America to get a federal court order for the employment of the union's members in Illinois' largest coal mines.

Action was delayed on an injunction petition against seven coal companies. Attorneys for both parties were ordered to file briefs to determine whether the federal district court has jurisdiction over the dispute.

The petition contended that a large number of Progressives are technically on strike and should be returned to the jobs they formerly held in the mines of the seven companies, which have contracts to employ workmen from United Mine Workers locals. President John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers, is a labor adviser of the NRA.

Attorneys for the coal companies argued that the Progressive miners' action is improper in that under the recovery act suit could be brought only by federal district attorneys through the department of justice.

DROWNED WOMAN IS DAUGHTER OF WM. F. COOLBAUGH

The body of a woman found floating in the lake off Navy pier on Sunday was identified yesterday as that of Miss Wilhelmine Coolbaugh, 40 years old, of the Whitehall apartment hotel, 105 East Delaware place. Miss Coolbaugh was the daughter of the late William F. Coolbaugh, who was a Chicago banker from 1880 until the early years of the present century, and was one of the founders of the old Union National bank.

Joseph R. Jullin, secretary of the trust department of the First National bank, made the identification at a coroner's inquest held at 200 East Erie street. Miss Coolbaugh has several cousins living in Chicago, but her closest relative, a sister, Mrs. Addie Brown, is now in Europe.

SALE OF 650,000 PROPERTIES FOR TAXES ORDERED

Judge Jarecki Sets Dec. 2 Deadline on Objections.

TAX COLLECTIONS.
Real estate tax collections yesterday were $339,815, making a total of $86,444,466 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

|             | 1928         | 1929         |
|-------------|--------------|--------------|
| Nov. 15     | $25,340     | $72,813     |
| Uncollected | $16,507,580 | $4,198,294  |
| 1930        |              | 1931         |
| Nov. 15     | $66,321     | $175,348    |
| Uncollected | $70,024,658 | $71,500,142 |

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $299.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday entered an order of judgment and sale against 650,000 parcels of property in Cook county which are delinquent in whole or part of their payment of 1931 taxes.

At the same time the Chicago Real Estate board started proceedings before him in an attempt to obtain through the County court the 15 per cent reduction in building valuations on 430,000 homes and small flat buildings which the board of tax appeals ordered in an action later held invalid by the Illinois Supreme court.

While the tax sale order affects almost two thirds of the real estate parcels in the county, real estate has paid 60 per cent of approximately $178,000,000 in 1931 taxes levied against it. Included in the judgment entered yesterday were 5,000 parcels of railroad property, on which about $2,000,000 in taxes is still due. Delinquent real estate taxes, at the end of last week, amounted to $71,675,484.

Orders Sale to Start Dec. 4.
Judge Jarecki set Dec. 2 as the final date for filing objections to the sale of the delinquent properties, which he ordered started on Dec. 4. At the same time he announced that he will not hold property owners strictly to the provisions of the Graham act, in effect for the first time this year, which prohibits the filing of objections on a property on which 75 per cent of the taxes have not been paid.

The principal exceptions allowed to the law, Judge Jarecki indicated, will be in the case of small property owners who can convince him that they are objecting in good faith, and that they have made an honest effort to pay their taxes. He will decide in such cases, he said, whether the taxpayer is entitled to a hearing after the objection has been filed.

Real Estate Board's Petition.
Attorney Daniel S. Wentworth filed the petition on behalf of the real estate board. It asks that the county judge enter the 15 per cent reduction for some 54,000 taxpayers who filed complaints with the board of tax appeals and were granted reductions individually. Assessor Jacobs has refused to recognize these reduction orders.

The petition further asks that the county court, in the capacity of a court of equity, extend the same reduction to all of the 430,000 properties affected by the now invalid blanket order of the appeals board.

Judge Jarecki will rule on the petition next Monday, he announced after Hayden N. Bell, assistant state's attorney in charge of tax matters, had indicated that he would demur to it on behalf of the county.

Bell Tells His Position.
"I believe and the state's attorney believes," said Mr. Bell, "that it is poor policy to lead 430,000 home owners to believe that they have been discriminated against, and then deny them relief. Whether this order is right or wrong I won't know until there has been a hearing. But I believe the only way this court can grant relief, if relief is to be granted,

CHICAGO TEACHERS OUT OF WORK SLATED FOR JOBS AND U. S. PAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Jobs and federal pay checks for hundreds of Chicago's idle teachers virtually were assured today by officials of the federal emergency relief administration.

A comprehensive plan for teacher employment, prepared by Francis G. Blair, Illinois state superintendent of education, was received at relief headquarters today and taken under immediate advisement. Officials said its approval, with a few possible amendments, is expected within a fortnight.

The program proposed by Mr. Blair and supported by the Illinois relief commission, coincides with activities already being carried on by the federal relief administration. Under it, teachers would be employed to instruct illingates, conduct vocational training classes for the idle, and teach in day nurseries for the children of relief families.

Submitting the program, Mr. Blair did not estimate the total cost of carrying it out, but he did stipulate that none of the "reemployed" teachers receive more than $81 a month. Officials of the relief administration declined comment on details of the plan until after further study, stating, however, that it is certain to be approved in principle as soon as possible.

In Illinois alone, according to the United States census bureau, there are some 158,000 teachers, of which 25,284 are native white, 108,000 foreign born white, 10,000 Negroes and 26,000 "others."

Under the Blair plan, teachers now jobless would be provided with a job instructing illingates and women who can not speak or write correctly in any language. Also, it was said, persons in need of vocational training and babies of the day nursery age will be taught by the federally paid teachers.

The Blair plan is the counterpart of similar plans for teacher employment, submitted by many other municipalities where the situation is acute. The relief administration, at the same time, is now providing jobs for many teachers on a "work-relief" basis.

is for individuals to have objections on file."

Judge Jarecki said that a number of taxpayers objecting to the sale of their property for delinquent taxes may join in a single objection if the grounds of their complaints are the same, and that the owner of several pieces of property may file one objection to cover them all.

During the day Judge Jarecki appointed County Treasurer McDonough receiver for 41 tax delinquent properties under the Kerner-Skarda act. The properties owe $104,000 in back taxes. Attorneys for other property owners paid $75,000 to avoid receiverships.

SCHOOL PAY DAY TODAY; EMPLOYEES TO GET TAX WRITS

1933 Warrants Will Be Distributed.

Distribution of 1933 tax anticipation warrants totaling $4,000,000 in lieu of cash to 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other school employees for their services during the month of March of this year will start today. The school workers will receive their warrants in the headquarters set up on the second floor of the old City State Bank building at 128 North Wells street.

More than 4,000 school employees are expected to come in for their warrants after the office opens at 9 o'clock this morning. Howard P. Savage, business manager of the school system, estimated that $750,000 worth of the securities would be distributed the opening day. A special detail of police and thirty clerks under the direction of Arthur Schweitzer, assistant business manager, are in readiness to handle the rush.

Warrants in Small Denominations.
School officials placed in the mails last night 18,000 mutilated, or "N. S. P." checks, which the teachers and other employees will take to the headquarters to exchange for warrants. The warrants are in denominations of $25, $50, and $100, in order to make them more usable for the payment of rent, grocery bills, and for the services of the physician and dentist.

The warrants are all against the educational fund tax levy for 1933, bear 6 per cent interest, and will be redeemable out of tax collections for this year. The market quotation on 1933 warrants during the last week has been steady around 90 bid and 91 asked. Warrants for several hundred employees of the building and playground funds are still being signed, but it is expected that they will be ready to give out within a few days.

Savage said that it probably would be two weeks before the distribution would be completed.

Recent Payment in Cash.
The pay day in warrants was decided upon at a meeting of the board of education on Oct. 31. At the same time, James B. McCahey, president of the board, announced that he had successfully concluded negotiations extending over a period of two weeks for a sale of warrants for cash to several large corporations. Pay checks were sent out the next day for the cash pay day, which amounted to $1,875,456.

Under a new order adopted by Mr. McCahey and members of the board, warrants that are sold for cash and sent for payment of salaries will bear 6 per cent, but warrants issued in payment of other indebtedness of the board will bear 5 per cent. This reduction of 1 per cent will save the school board more than $100,000 a year.

SEIZE PHYSICIAN, 54, ON CHARGE OF ATTEMPTED RAPE

Dr. Gilbert H. Wynkoop, 54 years old, was arrested in his home at 1537 East 68th street yesterday on a charge of attempted rape. The complainant was Miss Myrtle Archer, 27 years old, 1609 Wilson avenue, a nurse, who said she was lured to the home through a want advertisement. The physician, who formerly practiced in Chicago, told her he needed three nurses for a clinic he was starting. He then attempted rape, Miss Archer declared. She repulsed him and fled to notify the police. Dr. Wynkoop was arrested three years ago on similar charges.

WOMAN, 3 MEN ARE JAILED FOR RELIEF FRAUDS

Husbands Punished for Hiding Wives' Jobs.

Three men and a woman were sentenced to jail yesterday by Municipal Judge Erickson for obtaining public relief by fraud.

Mrs. Agnes Knebel, 51 years old, 3235 South Racine avenue, was sentenced to serve thirty days in the House of Correction and fined $1. She received $482.51 in relief from May 4, 1932 to July, 1933, while she was earning $18 a week as a janitress in the First National Bank building. She has four children. Her husband, Charles, is jobless.

Conceals Wife's Job.
Albert Knapek, 49 years old, 4732 South Hermitage avenue, was sentenced to sixty days in the House of Correction. He received $39.22 in relief from December, 1932, to last March. His wife, Bessie, has been employed at the Federal Reserve Bank building at $75 a month since 1927.

Joseph Villareale, 4222 South Ladin street, was sentenced to sixty days in the House of Correction. He received $280.85 from a relief agency between December, 1932, and last April while he was employed as a Hotel Sherman houseman at $13.80 a week.

Peter Zintoy, 32 years old, 6124 West Addison street, was sentenced to five days in the House of Correction after he paid back $320.05 he had received

OPERA COMPANY CAST SUBDUES NEGRO WHO INVADES REHEARSAL

San Gabriel, Cal., Nov. 15.—(P)—Dan Wilson, a six-foot four-inch Negro, made a stormy entrance into grand opera today and went out howling.

Neighbors reported Wilson was intoxicated and boisterous. Policeman Leo Howell went to arrest him, but Wilson fled and, at the Mission Grand Opera company quarters, where a rehearsal of "Cavalleria Rusticana" was in progress, he broke through the door, seized a chair and offered to "do battle."

When the officer arrived two tenors and a baritone had the giant Negro under control. Sitting atop him were Maurice Slavaz, weight 200, Vincenzo Schillaci, a middleweight, and Lionel de Salles, a lightweight.

Madeline Lux, the prima donna, never wavered on a note nor did the orchestra director miss a beat with his baton. They kept right on while the officer, finding handcuffs too small for Wilson, tied him with rope and took him to jail.

In relief during thirteen months ending in September. His wife, Emma, is employed at the Boye Needle company, 4335 Ravenswood avenue, at $15 a week.

100 Letters Charge Fraud.
Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the commission, said that the relief fraud prosecutions conducted so far by the commission constitute merely a beginning of the commission's campaign to stamp out all frauds.

"Since we inaugurated this campaign about 100 letters a day have been received by the commission, giving facts about families who are receiving relief when they are not entitled to it," he said. "Each letter is being investigated and all frauds uncovered will be prosecuted."

FRANK L. WRIGHT AND WIFE ESCAPE UNHURT IN CRASH

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—(P)—Frank Lloyd Wright, world famous architect of Spring Green, Wis., and his wife, Olga, escaped injury today when an automobile driven by Wright collided with another driven by F. S. Choles, Madison florist, at a highway intersection.

At the time of the crash near Oregon, south of here, the Wrights and John H. Howe, a passenger, were en route to Chicago, where the architect was to deliver a lecture.

Choles, whose automobile was turned over and badly damaged, was taken to a hospital. He suffered cuts on his head and neck and a back injury.

Wright's car was not damaged badly and none of the occupants were hurt.

THE NEW COLD WEATHER GASOLINE

Illustration above is from actual war photograph—anti-aircraft machine gun in action, France, May, 1918

Here's a real tonic for motors that have a tendency to be lazy and sluggish on cold mornings—a gasoline that is carefully formulated to do a summer job even in mid-winter temperatures. Actually, there is an increase averaging more than 50% in the highly volatile, quick-firing portions of Standard Red Crown Superfuel, to meet winter driving needs. This new QUICK-FIRE SUPERFUEL definitely is the fastest starting gasoline Standard ever offered. Yet it still retains 70 octane anti-knock and all those other qualities which combined to make the COMPLETE Superfuel. And it sells at the price of regular.

Try it! Swing in where you see the familiar Standard Red Crown globe, and take aboard a few gallons of the new Quick-Fire Superfuel. Then, the next cold morning see how it does warm up a cold motor!

STILL THE COMPLETE SUPERFUEL

Some "regular" gasolines may equal Standard Red Crown "Quick-Fire" Superfuel in one or two qualities—none surpasses it. And we believe that not one equals it in all the essentials of good gasoline.

1. Unsurpassed in starting—quick warm-up.
2. 70 Octane—top anti-knock in its price class.
3. Free from harmful sulphur and gum.
4. Accurately adjusted for seasonal variations.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

BOUNCING DOLLARS AND LITTLE PIGS.

Along the United States-Canadian border American and Canadian currencies are frequently used as if they were the currencies of one country. Sometimes there is a disparity which makes the exchange a valuable consideration, and Americans, when they could get 110 Canadian dollars for 100 United States, have felt that the difference was an evidence of their own country's financial soundness. By custom, American bills have been accepted as legal tender in Canadian postoffices. That has been stopped. The American rubber dollar is too uncertain a token.

Now the country is supposed to be grateful when the gold price board succeeds in knocking something additional off the value of American currency. In these topsy-turvy times it is thought good to have a dollar that weakens as the government attacks it. Governments before have been known to do everything in their power to protect their currency, but the American government is concerned with the destruction of its value. It has become a question mark and not a token of stable value. Under manipulation it is bouncing from one level to another.

Old ideas have little value these days. Good farm land was prized because it could grow crops. Now it is valuable for subsidies if nothing is raised on it. Pigs used to make pork roasts, pork chops, and lard. Now they make tanks and bad smells. A good dollar is now a bad dollar. The continental congress once achieved a financial triumph which enabled a purchaser to take his currency to market in a wagon and bring back his purchase in his coat pocket. It may not be the ambition of the government now to have trucks carrying the coin to the store and the little boy of the family bringing back the goods, but the best economists in the country are warning the government that if the present financial policy is pursued that is what will happen. Several European nations remind the United States that they suffered more misery after the war with tumbling currencies than they did in the war itself.

Instinct tells many Americans that waste and destruction, idleness and subsidies are profoundly uncertain means of getting back to prosperity. Many are beginning to wonder at the tenacity of government administrators who take such long chances with dangerous devices. It takes a lot of courage, and a generous person can admire that, but a testimonial to the fortitude of the administrators will not pay the bills when they come due. Uncertainties do not make confidence and increasing perplexities in every activity of life will not enable a nation to make the fight it must if it is to pull itself out of adversity. Level headed men are imploring the government at Washington to come down to earth before it is too late.

MISS WEST AND THE WHEAT SURPLUS.

Mr. Wallace and Mr. Peek of the AAA should have their attention drawn to Miss Mae West. The movies are willing to project governmental ideas. They know that compliance is better than censorship. If they lend a hand they escape the ban. Miss West is the sensation of the movies. She mixes fast ones with a lot of curves. It was said of the hours that their admirers liked them fat. It would be false to say that Miss West is fat, but she rounds out, and admiration, which has been trying to get somewhere along lean athletic lines, turns from the Spartan job to confess that a touch of oriental lavishness is preferred at heart. Lean athletic lines will not sell wheat and fabrics. Mr. Wallace and Mr. Peek are plowing up the cotton, letting the wheat lands lie fallow, and putting the pigs in the tankage. This costs money and does not sell any foodstuffs or clothing. Export markets are bad, but Miss West will show how this can be a self-contained nation. If her figure sets the style all is saved. New advice to Mr. Wallace and Mr. Peek would be: "Go West, gentlemen."

THE BEST AIR ROUTE.

In connection with the announcement by leading air lines of a determined effort to make air travel as popular in winter as it has been this summer, THE TRIBUNE aviation editor, Mr. Sexton, calls attention to some statistics which have a special significance for the development of air transport in America.

Weather is, of course, an important factor in efficiency in every field of transportation and at this stage especially of air transport. It should therefore be noted that of the two major air systems, the United Air Lines, operating between New York, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City and San Francisco, making a total of 5,331 trips last year, completed 60.5 per cent of them on schedule time. On the other hand, the Transcontinental and Western Air Lines, flying the southern coast to east route, from New York through Columbus, Kansas City, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, and Albuquerque to Los Angeles, made a total of 2,774 trips, completing 46 per cent on time. In equipment and personnel these two systems are at least approximately equal, and the advantage in efficiency must be ascribed to the route covered. The midcontinent route, in other words, has the better condition and Chicago is its axis. The record strongly supports Chicago's claim to be the national hub of the country's system of air transport. Although with the perfecting of air transport the weather hazard may diminish in relative importance, advantages of position and of conditions will not be lost to Chicago, and wise policy will exploit them in the evolution of air transport in America.

RAIL PROGRESS AND RECOVERY.

The new type train of the Texas and Pacific that has been making experimental trips over the Burlington between Chicago and Aurora is a distinct accomplishment, and an examination of it amply rewarded those who stopped at the Union station to view it. First one is impressed with the beauty and businesslike appearance of the little train. It seemed to accentuate the clumsiness of the freight and passenger power that it passed en route, and this does not merely exist in the mind.

Leaving Aurora promptly at 3:30, the train had reached a speed of thirty-five miles per hour by the time the power unit was opposite the end of the platform. This speed was increased to sixty miles per hour in the next half minute, reaching a maximum of seventy-four miles per hour, apparently necessary to enable the train to make the thirty-eight mile trip in thirty-eight minutes, including a slow-down at Western avenue.

Interest centered on the rubber tired wheels resembling automobile disc wheels with the "disc" extended beyond the tire on the inside to form a flange. The tires looked light, but when we consider that the entire coach weighed but twelve tons—not extraordinary weight for a truck and its load—and was carried on sixteen wheels instead of six, as in the case of a truck, the Texas and Pacific train had ample rubber under it. Questions were raised as to the possibility of blow-outs in the pneumatic tires, when it was learned that inside the inner tube there was an aluminum safety ring which would prevent the wheel from dropping in excess of five-eighths of an inch on deflation.

Another feature of interest is the radical change in the method of driving the train. The engineer controls speed by foot power in precisely the same manner as in an automobile, and if he releases his foot he automatically stops the engine and applies the brakes.

In riding in the comfortable coaches one forgot that he was riding on a railroad. The sensation was that of riding in an automobile. Sound-proofing and air-conditioning added to the comfort.

To the railway men the operating cost was the point of interest. Steam train out of pocket expenses would be reduced from an average of around $1 to 32 cents per mile. That many of these trains will appear on our railways within a comparatively short time seems a foregone conclusion. Western and southern railroads have materially reduced their passenger fares and need an additional volume of business, for which they must provide more trains, unless they are going to attempt to sell merchandise "that they haven't on their shelves," as one railway man states the situation. To meet reduced passenger revenues will require more economical equipment.

The foregoing gratifying evidence of railroad enterprise gives occasion to say again what we have repeatedly said before, that the modernization of railroad transport may be the greatest factor that will draw the country out of the depression. This Tribune's long and persistent effort to induce the railroads to bring their equipment and practice as promptly as their means permit up to the level of present conditions has been dictated not only by our interest in the maximum development of transport but by the conviction that in this development there is without question one of the greatest forces for general recovery.

WHY DO WE HAVE A GOVERNMENT?
(James D. Rockwell, Editor, Murphyboro Daily Independent.)

Our government was formed "in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and insure the blessings of liberty." Note—it wasn't formed to promote individual welfare.

More than a year ago the Column wrote and submitted a platform for both political parties on the subject of prohibition. The Republicans scorned it, but the Democrats adopted it exactly as written. Maybe they never heard of the Column, but they adopted its platform nevertheless, and look what happened.

One of these days we are going to write another platform for political parties. It will read something as follows: "Government of the people, by the people, for the people is for the sole purpose of establishing justice, insuring domestic tranquility, providing for the common defense, promoting the general welfare, and insuring liberty, and the best government is the least government. All laws incompatible with that program will be repealed and all taxes to support such activities revoked. The government will utterly cease being a Don Quixote in international affairs, a Santa Claus to foreign governments, a nurse to its own citizens, and a silly old busybody in attempts to regulate morals of every one."

When we get that platform thought out and properly worked out we will give both political parties a chance to adopt it. Right now it looks as if something like that would be the one big issue in the next political campaign. Write down the date of this prophecy, Oct. 30, 1933.

Within the next two years we expect the churches to see that they commit hari-kiri when they turn the job of making decent citizens over to the government; the business men and labor to see that government regulation is the death of all private initiative, and every one to see that the power to tax is the power to destroy, and that when you brush the teeth of a free and independent citizen he soon loses the power and desire to brush himself.

That should result in unanimous support of the Column's startling suggestion that we have a constitutional government in America.

"Now," said the speaker who had been selected to start a new drive, "I'm not going to talk very long, but if you can just get what I say in your head you'll have the whole thing in a nutshell."

The demonstration that followed this speech was so vociferous that the speaker was unable to continue.—Pathfinder.

THE NEW FARM STAPLE.

"...or the farmers have the opportunity to join the farm holiday movement and raise hell."—Secretary Wallace.

They used to raise cats down on the farm.
And wheat and corn as well;
But now upon Farm Holiday
They go in for raising hell.

The new crop's easy to cultivate,
It springs up like a dart,
You can sow the darned thing any time,
All it needs is a little start.

It's hard to get help on the farm,
To hoe and plow and seed;
But when you harvest a crop of hell
You'll get all the help you need.

They had to kill their little pigs,
And bury their wheat, by thunder!
The farmers say hell's their only crop.
They're not made to plow under.

"THE DISCUSSIONS," said Mr. Bullitt, assistant to Sec. Hull, speaking of the conversations between Franklin Delano and Comrade Litvinov, "might be compared to two bookworms beginning at opposite ends of a shelf—it takes them some time to get through." Which is some sixty below zero in smiles. Comrade Litvinov is far too fat to remind any one of a bookworm, or hookworm, or angleworm, or any other kind of worm, let Mr. Bullitt say what he will.

WOUNDED BIRD.

She built a wall of grim defense
Around a spirit hurt and shy;
She wore an air of arrogance
For curious minds and glances shy;
Words dipped in ink of insolence
Disguised the fear she would deny.

But I have seen a broken bird,
With dragging wing and frightened eye,
Protest my gentle touch and word
With fluttering fight and futile cry.

MRS. IDA B. WISE SMITH, the new cheer leader of the W. C. T. U. girls, says (and she certainly ought to know with that name) national prohibition will return but not in this generation. We should worry about the next generation; snakes alive! we've got trouble enough with our own.

THE DEER HUNTING season opens tomorrow. Guides in the peninsula of Michigan and in northern Wisconsin should distribute all printed cards among the hunters stating the following facts:

A DEER has FOUR legs, a guide has only TWO. Count the legs on the deer you are aiming at; if it has TWO legs then ask it politely if it is a deer. If it says NO look sharply and see if the deer is smoking a pipe. If so then it might NOT be a deer.

COWS, HORSES and MULES also have FOUR legs, so before shooting look carefully; if the deer is hitched to a wagon it might be a horse or a mule. If it has a BELL on its neck it could be a cow. If it howls mournfully that would be the BIG BAD WOLF.

IF A HUNTER finds another hunter's hat mistaken him for a DEER and is shooting at him he should not waste time saying, "Lissen, guy, I ain't no deer!" Deer hunters are very SKEETICAL and they would merely think the deer was lying. The best thing to do is to stand quiet and make a noise like a CANARY BIRD. A deer hunter would be ashamed to KILL a canary bird and so he would stop shooting.

WHAT ARE THE RUSSIANS going to pay us in for the stuff they say they're going to buy from us? They don't seem to have much money, so why couldn't they pay us in whiskers? We could use the whiskers to stuff sofas, mattresses, and auto cushions. And even if they don't give us gold we would say as we sank down on a nice soft whiskered sofa: "They have done what they could."

HOT PANEL HEATING.

THE British are trying to solve the problem of house heating in cold weather by what is known as the hot panel method. In this country we are disposed to choose between such older methods as heating by open fire, stoves, warm air, hot water, and steam. The problem is difficult because it necessarily includes such other problems as humidifying the warm air, cleaning it of physical and chemical impurities, and other phases of ventilation.

In this country not much use has been made of heating by electricity. The addition to the methods to be chosen between, offered principally by the British is a modified method of electric heating. Resistance wires, coils, and plates are imbedded in the side walls and in the ceilings and under the floors. The areas chosen for heating are those where the need is greatest. For instance, they are often placed in side walls near windows or doors, areas that are apt to add to the discomfort of a poorly heated room. In large offices and school-rooms occupants try to keep away from such walls on cold days.

None of the older systems are altogether satisfactory when it comes to cold floors. In the panel heating method some wires and plates are planted under the floors.

A recent report on the panel method, as applied to the heating of schoolrooms, showed that it was inefficient, at least in the installation that was studied. While it may have done something worth while in promoting ventilation and increasing the relative comfort of the floor area, it was not a success otherwise.

Not enough heat was supplied to maintain the air of the room at comfortable temperatures. The manufacturers must find a way to introduce more resistance wires in the panels, and the janitors must burn more electricity before the method can succeed in heating a schoolroom or a large office occupied by as many as forty persons and stenographers.

In this schoolroom the temperature was not hot enough to maintain comfort for the continuance of study. When compared over a period of time with a schoolroom heated by hot water the latter was found to be more efficient. The skin temperature of the pupils' hands in the panel heated room was found between 55 and 60 per cent of the tests, as compared with 75 per cent in the other school. Hand skin temperature of 65 to 70 degrees was found in 25 per cent of the pupils in the panel treated room, as compared with 37 per cent in the other room. Some of the pupils in the panel treated schoolroom had blue, cold, numb hands.

The conclusion of the report was that the panel heating in this school was not adequate for comfort and efficiency.

W. D. K. writes: I have a bottle baby, aged 6 months. I give him vitaminized milk. I am sure it is good for him. If so, how much?

From Across the Sea

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

OSLO, Norway.—In no part of Europe are the people more air minded than in the countries surrounding the Baltic. That is a reason. Before the coming of the airplane the Baltic was the most difficult part of Europe to travel in. Now, except for a few uncompleted links, it is one of the easiest.

A glance at the map of northern Europe will show what a real obstacle to travel the Baltic sea is. Even in summer it is a rough sea. It is shallow, which makes navigation more difficult, and in some parts necessitates the use of shallow draft boats—very uncomfortable to ride in when the sea is rough.

Another advantage of air travel in the north is that it eliminates much of the frontier trouble. Hates and jealousies still exist between several of the countries and passport formalities, customs, examinations, and disclosures of money must be undergone at all borders. By air, if the journey warrants it, a traveler may fly over two or three frontiers without interference and submit to only one examination, at his point of arrival.

For instance, take the flight from Berlin to Danzig. By train the journey takes fifteen hours and passengers must cross the Polish corridor. This means an examination by the Poles when travelers enter the corridor, another by the Germans when they reenter Germany, and a third when the Danzig Free State is reached.

By air the same journey takes less than three hours and there is only one customs and passport examination. Another time saving flight is from Riga, Latvia, to Tallinn, Estonia. By train it is a ten hour journey. By air it takes less than two. Only one frontier has to be crossed, so that advantage is not gained by air.

Two of the most remarkable time savers in the Baltic are the trips from Tallinn to Helsinki and from Helsinki to Stockholm. Tallinn lies directly opposite Helsinki on the south shore of the Gulf of Finland. Small boats make the journey in five or six hours. If the sea is rough it takes eight or nine hours.

In winter when the gulf is frozen no boats can operate. The Joint Estonian-Finnish air company has several small all metal airplanes on the job. Each carries four passengers. The planes cross the gulf in forty minutes. In summer they are seaplanes and in winter skids are fitted so that they can take off and land on ice.

The trip from Helsinki to Stockholm used to be the terror of travelers. By slow train to Abo and slower boat to Stockholm the journey took twenty-eight hours. Now planes carrying fourteen passengers each make the journey in one day in two and a half hours.

JUST A HELPFUL SUGGESTION.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Perhaps you will permit a suggestion in regard to the continuation of A Century of Progress into 1934. It is that the Travel and Transport building be devoted to exhibits by the surface, elevated, and bus lines of Chicago. The suggested arrangement of the exhibit is as follows:

About a raised central platform there will be circular tracks and a street. Upon the elevated track there will run an exact replica of the Evanston express as it passes Chicago avenue at 8:15 p. m. It will stop at regular intervals, and additional passengers will make futile efforts to squeeze themselves in. (Of course, they will be only hired actors.)

On the surface line will run a careful reproduction of a State street car. At intervals a frightened passenger will fight his way through to the rear platform to report "two pickpockets" operating in front; the conductor will explain that it is unsafe to do anything about it. In the meantime the motorman will open the front door frequently to spit tobacco juice into the street.

In the street will run a No. 41 bus, proudly displaying (believe it or not) an NRA sign, and jammed to the very roof. At each stop a passenger who has been wedged into a remote corner will try to get out and will exchange heated words with the solitary driver. The driver is clearly not at fault, since he is doing more work than two men did five years ago. At this a group of actors on the central platform, who represent the president, etc., of the bus line, will laugh up their sleeves. They will then assume expressions of complete surprise and incredulity as they make their hourly inspection of a curious eyerow erected in the center of the platform. It is the Devon avenue waiting room, which has been moved bodily to the spot, provided that by then it has not fallen to pieces.

Over all will float a banner with the words "Century of Stagnation."

KINDNESS TO TURTLES.

Stockton, Ill., Nov. 6.—In a glass aquarium in my home, soaking silently and morosely, is Ignatz, 171 green turtle from A Century of Progress. He was a cute souvenir, well worth the two bits he cost, but the family fears Ignatz is unhappy and longing for his own mammy down in Dixie.

All over the middle west there must be World's Fair turtles whose owners have become weary of looking at 'em. I propose a southern exodus for the baby tortoises. They can't fly, like the birds, but they can be mailed. Somewhere in the south there must be some kindly soul with a heart as big as a barn door who would be glad to take the 171 discontented turtles and dump 'em in the warm Suwanee river, where they can romp and play once more. Volunteers, please write.

PROBABLY BARRED.
Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1906 A gave B a $200 mortgage on a piece of Illinois real estate. In 1921 A paid B $100 on the principal, but no interest has ever been paid. A is now dead and his widow occupies the property. Can B foreclose the mortgage?

The limitation period is 10 years from the maturity date or from the last payment or installment to pay. Hence it seems probable that liability has been barred and that the mortgage holder cannot foreclose.

DISTRIBUTING ESTATE.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When an estate is admitted to probate, the estate consisting of real estate, bonds, and bank account, can distribution of part of the assets and payment of liabilities be made six weeks after publication? The only liabilities are the funeral, doctor, and hospital bills.

A. O. Yes, in the sense that an executor who is willing to take the chance he claims being filed can distribute as soon as he likes. No, in the sense that distribution cannot be forced. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THIRD AND LAST

By NORVAL RICHARDSON

SYNOPSIS

Sheila, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American, makes a comfortable living abroad by helping fellow countrymen out of difficulties. Fred Crawford, a Paris newspaperman, is her friend and confidant. Bun agrees to help James B. Finlay, an elderly, wealthy American, and his young wife, Helene, who wants to go to America. She is to find out if he is a swindler or a genuine man. She is to find out if he is a swindler or a genuine man. She is to find out if he is a swindler or a genuine man.

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII

WITHHELD EVIDENCE.

A car was waiting for Bun and Fred at the hotel entrance. The road was clear. Miles were soon left behind them and the dazzling lights of the Nice airport there before them—and a plane ready and waiting.

Rising from the ground and leaving the world beneath brought a return of color to Bun's cheeks. This, at last, was motion, the elimination of that terrifying distance that separated her from her goal. All of the urge of the past hours, during which she had felt an irresistible desire to run as fast as she could—merely to be doing something physical—gradually passed away. At last she could relax and float high above everything. Her lids began to feel heavy. She closed her eyes and drifted off into heavy sleep.

"Fried!" Crawford's voice, close to her, made her start up. Beneath, a gray dawn that seemed to be without limit, was a vast stretch of water, and far to one side a miniature city.

"Why do we live down there," Bun murmured, "where we're only pig-mies?" Up here we are gods.

Crawford looked at her in surprise. "I didn't think you'd seen anything along the way."

"I haven't, Fred. And I won't until it's the airport at Bucharest."

"With Finlay in the hands of the surety," he said with a note of deliberate encouragement in his voice.

"O, Fred—if he only is! I'm not a bird of ill omen, you know that, but

Weird Stories Breed Fear of Night in Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Fear of the dark.

One of our children's greatest fears is that of the dark.

There are many ways in which we can safeguard them.

Stories that people the world of their imagination with monsters or goblins or ghosts, with bogey men or witches or roving giants, with any person or creature that might terrify them are not for young children's ears.

Threats to gain obedience or quiet that are based on the appeal to fear are a form of cruelty that should never be practiced by parents or nurses or any one in charge of children.

Books with grotesque or weird illustrations should be abandoned, and it goes without saying that movies have no place in the very young child's life.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

CASH HAUL AND DEATH.

The cell door clanged and Prof. Fordney was alone with the prisoner.

"Well," he queried.

"Ain't I told my story three times 'ready?' belligerently replied Luke Degan.

The criminologist said nothing.

"Well, I want to get out of this lousy joint—fast; so here it is again. I was tipped that Harry Anderson was gonna make a cash haul last night.

"Needn't dangle, I waited outside the tenement where he's been 'holed up,' believe it or not, and he came back there after.

"About 2:30 he did and I tailed him to his room on the third floor without him knowin' it—the halls was dark.

Life and that what he hears on the radio should be carefully selected.

For all these things create fantasies that come to life when he is alone in the dark. When night blows out the familiar things of everyday, a child's imagination works with the material that has been fed to his mind in his waking hours.

Elissa Landi's Secluded Home Inspires Poetry

Actress Loves Solitude and Scenic Beauty.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — (Special). — When you drive up from the canyon base to the high location where rests The Cloisters, the home of Elissa Landi, you're still not quite prepared for the magnificent scenic beauty before and around you. It is breathtaking in its panoramic scope, practically isolated from the world.

Still in riding clothes, after her morning hours' run, quoted the poet, Elissa, from the fantasy born of the morning vision of snow capped hills: "These hills have eaten into my heart; all beauty eats into my heart. The white teeth of jagged mountains have fastened themselves into my being."

"Not good poetry," she tosses her head with a laugh, "but some expression of what I feel in the grip of it all."

"There's something real about the happiness you get from a garden," she tells as she discloses a passionate taste for gardening, meantime arranging bowl after bowl of flowers for the house.

We sit in the pantry of the lovely Spanish-Italian house, ecclesiastically austere, while the interesting young woman goes on sipping jars and bowls and single containers, a dozen in all. She picks the flowers herself daily.

"I've come to the conclusion I'm three-quarters mature and one-quarter imbecile," she says. "But I'm not concerned. My father cured my conceit as a child. 'In the kingdom of the blind,' he would remind me, 'the one-eyed is king.'"

We descend a cypress lined walk to a pergola, from whence again the view is magnificent, while Miss Landi tells of the most famous woman picture she ever saw, in Leah Siedl, a Viennese musical comedy star, and of how she thinks Rebecca West a glamorous person; also Mrs. Trullow, wife of a former Rumanian minister in London. Of how she would adore to meet Ernest Boyd, the writer, a long-standing passion.

Son of Steel Executive Will Wed Ruth McKillip
A marriage license was obtained at Waukegan yesterday by Miss Ruth McKillip of Briar lane, Highland Park, and James William Harris of Glencoe avenue, Highland Park. Each is 25 years old. Miss McKillip is the daughter of Mrs. W. Harrison McKillip, widow of a north shore realty dealer. Harris is the son of a steel company executive. They will be married at 4 o'clock Thursday at the Episcopal church, Highland Park.

Hold Annual Bazaar.

Paris Booms Old Gold for Formal Wear;
Spring May Find It on Daytime Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.
PARIS.—[Special].—Old gold with Vionnet, Chanel, and Molynex backing it looked like a future fashion leader way back last August, when the style shows broke. But today, with many of the most fashionable women in Paris wearing it, this shade steps into the ruling class of the season's color chart. It is, at the moment, worn more for evening than anything else. And not only is gold a dress color. Women are wearing massive gold jewelry, set with precious stones. The gold standard is thus adhered to all along the line, and there's a possibility that gold will get into general circulation for daytime by next spring. Keep it in mind.

The model shown in our sketch is an old gold ensemble made of panne sauvage (savage panne velvet), a sleek and sinuous material. Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt chose this dress and wrap chez Molynex, and she ordered the amusing trimming of ostrich tips that are placed down the front of the bodice diagonally and that run around to end on the left hip, in a dark rich brown. The skirt of this frock trails slightly in back, and it has a distinct back flare.

Old Quilt Design Uses Joseph's Coat
as Colorful Base

BY NANCY CABOT.
This is an early American pattern, named "Joseph's Coat," for the obvious reason that almost any number of materials and colors may be used in its execution. Modern quilt makers seem to prefer it made up in only two colors, a restrained effect more to the popular taste in the present day.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Tuesday night she has arranged to have dinner served in the foyer adjoining the Palmer house ballroom, where the performance is to be given. Already a number of people have planned dinner parties for that night and some of those who are going to have their parties in the foyer so that they will surely be in their seats in the ballroom by 8:30 o'clock are the Donald B. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Nitta, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes, the Byron S. Harveys and the Charles B. Goodspeeds. Rimsky-Korsakow's "Mozart e Salieri" and "The Duet Cat" by Gluck will be presented next Tuesday.

Another benefit! The latest one to be announced is a bridge party, fashion show and tea to be given for the Red, White and Blue club on Tuesday, Dec. 5, in the ballroom of the Drake hotel. Mrs. Edward R. Fifield and Mrs. George Rasmussen are co-chairman of the committee in charge and Mrs. Loring W. Coleman is obtaining donations for prizes. Tickets may be secured by telephoning Superior 7614.

Arts Club Lecture on Gershwin Show.

The lecture that Daniel Catton Rich will give this morning at 11:30 o'clock at the Arts Club about the George Gershwin collection of modern paintings now hanging in the club gallery undoubtedly will attract a very large audience, not only because the exhibit is interesting but because young Mr. Rich is one of society's favorite lecturers on art. His lectures at the Art Institute have converted more than one to the cause of modern art.

Some of those who have made reservations for luncheon after the lecture are Mrs. James MacVeagh, Mrs. Anselmus T. Callahan, Miss Agnes Foreman, Mrs. William Dean, Mrs. John Senn, and Mrs. Austin Selz.

Dr. Horace Bridges will talk on "The Growing Dangers to Human Liberty" this morning at 11 o'clock at the Fortnightly at the third of a series of lectures.

The Hitler regime will be discussed before members of the Chicago council on foreign relations at luncheon today in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Dr. Friedrich Schenckman of the University of Berlin, who for seven years was a professor at Harvard, will discuss "The New Germany Under Hitler."

In the absence from the city of Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, who has succeeded Adlai Stevenson as president of the council, George Richardson, a former president, will preside.

Many Friends See Drawings by Janet.
Dozens of persons found time yesterday afternoon to drop in at Brenridge's on North Michigan avenue to see thirteen drawings by Janet [Janet Busby] that have been done since she returned to Chicago from Paris last spring. Every one was enthusiastic about the drawings, especially those the young artist had titled "Lilies," "Swans," and "Faun."

Miss Busby was wearing a very becoming gown of bright red silk, a brown hat and a sable scarf. Her mother, Mrs. Leonard A. Busby, who received with her, wore black with silver foxes and a black velvet hat trimmed with a little cluster of bright green feathers.

A few of those who were there were Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mrs. Victor Young, whose portrait was in the exhibition; Miss Emily Larned, Mrs. Welch Dickinson, Mrs. Samuel M. Rinkner, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bernays, and Miss Betty Brawley.

Mrs. Donald F. McPherson is opening her home on Pine lane in Winnetka from 10 to 5:30 o'clock Thursday for the annual Christmas sale of the Winnetka board of the Ell Bates settlement. All the lovely articles that will be included in the selling are the work of the poor Italian women who are served by the settlement.

Mrs. Helen Walton, who has just returned from London, where she saw her sister, Miss Edith Rosenfield, married to Chalmers McGuffie of London.

Founders' Day Dinner.
Sigma Alpha sorority will hold the annual Founders' day dinner tonight at the Tower Town club. Miss Katharine Bruggs has been elected Chicago chairman.

On Oct. 30, is giving a tea Friday afternoon in her apartment at the Lake Shore Drive hotel for Miss Anna Enters, the dancer.

The old fashioned harvest home festival the Big Sisters are to have all day and all evening on Nov. 23 was the topic of conversation yesterday afternoon in the drawing room of Mrs. David F. Bremner's apartment at 1430 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Bremner was hostess at tea to the board members of this charity.

Cooking Editor Deplores Lack of Fruit Butter

Revives Memories of Open
Wood Fires.

BY MARY MEADE.

Something woefully sad is happening to the jam closets of the nation. It isn't that they're just diminished in size. We can lay that to the kitchenette era. But some way they have jelled and preserved themselves into such sophisticated shapes now-days that one of the grandest of the old standbys seems to be fast disappearing from the earth. This neglected delicatessen is none other than the one time all-American favorite, fruit butter.

Back in what we generously call "the good old days," fruit butter making was quite a ceremony.

APPLE BUTTER WITH CIDER.
A good proportion of peeled and sliced apples and cider (or gallon, a larger proportion of cider will give an increasingly saucy texture unless the butter is cooked slowly for 4 to 6 hours.

Cook the apple and cider until the apples no longer separate. When the butter should be at the consistency of thick apple sauce. Cool a little occasionally to determine this point of doneness. As for sugar, usually a pound of white or brown to a gallon of apple butter is the correct measure. Put it in when the apples are about two-thirds cooked. Spices should be stirred in when the cooking is finished. About ½ teaspoon each of ground cloves, allspice, and cinnamon for a gallon of butter. For still more snap, add about 3 teaspoons of vanilla per gallon of butter, after the cooking is completed.

APPLE BUTTER WITHOUT CIDER.
When we have tart apples on hand, cider may often be dispensed with. Add sufficient water to the sliced, peeled apples to make a thin apple sauce. Simmer slowly until thick, adding about one pound of brown sugar per gallon of apple butter when the sauce is two-thirds cooked. Add ground cinnamon, allspice, cloves, and vanilla to taste.

APPLE BUTTER WITH GRAPE JUICE.
A tangy grape flavor lends a delectable kind of snap to apple butter. Measure the peeled and sliced apples. Cook them with a little added water to a saucelike consistency. Strain through a sieve and add 1 cup of brown sugar, 2 cups of grape juice and ½ teaspoon of salt for each gallon of fresh apples as first measured. Cook again slowly until thick and buttery, then add ground cinnamon to flavor. (Copyright, 1933, by The Chicago Tribune.)

Tells Women to Shop Early to Create Jobs

An appeal for early Christmas shopping, so that merchants will be able to employ the hundreds of applicants for jobs, was made before the Winnetka League of Women Voters yesterday by D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store. Mr. Kelly spoke on the effect of the NRA on the cost of living.

"As to the cost of living under the NRA, undoubtedly prices are higher," said Mr. Kelly. "Many believe that will mount even higher. The probabilities are that they will remain constant for some time to come."

Mr. Kelly said that housewives may reason that because people were unable to buy when prices were low commodities would be beyond the reach of prospective purchasers. But he asserted that the merchants had assumed a great share of the NRA load.

"President Roosevelt has stated frequently that he expects to make mistakes, and he will rectify them as rapidly as possible," said Mr. Kelly. "Prices may have been advanced very materially by certain manufacturers. We have had our own experience with some of them. But, taken by and large, we have very little difficulty in convincing the manufacturer of the fairness of our position, which is that orders placed well in advance of the passage of the national recovery act should be delivered at the price stipulated."

In signing the NRA code, Mr. Kelly said, the cotton textile manufacturers committed themselves to the fact that increased costs could be converted into increased prices without checking demand, that rising prices would increase demand.

"In short," he said, "the code may have committed them to a capital levy to bridge the gap between the effective date of the code and the effective date of normal recovery."

FAIR EXECUTIVES BUSY PREPARING FOR 1934 OPENING

Workmen Store Exhibits

A Century of Progress Exposition was a deserted village yesterday. Only an occasional workman could be seen on the winding avenues and in the gay colored buildings where millions had swarmed in holiday gaily.

In contrast to the general air of desolation, the Administration building was the scene of feverish activity. There President Rufus C. Dawes and his aids were planning for a greater Fair in 1934.

Face Entire Task Ahead.
"Our work has just begun," said President Dawes, gazing out of the window to watch workmen putting the great show to bed for the winter. "In the next seven months we shall have to do practically all that we did in years. For we are opening a bigger and a better Exposition on June 1, 1934."

Mr. Dawes explained that new contracts must be drawn up with 500 exhibitors and an equal number of concessionaires. In addition applications of new exhibitors and concessionaires must be examined and considered. The immediate problem facing the Fair officials at present is one of finances. Within the next few days the personnel of the winter staff must be selected. Provisions must be made for adequate police and fire protection, for a staff to promote the 1934 Fair and for an executive group to carry on the business of opening in June.

Attendance Totals 22,320,456.
With the close of the 1933 Fair, M. M. Tweter, controller of the Exposition, announced the total of paid admissions as 22,320,456. In addition, he said, there were 245,403 tickets sold, but not used, bringing the total number of tickets sold to 22,565,859. Evacuation of Camp Whittier began in the afternoon. With silver helmets gleaming and spurs jingling Troop A of the 14th cavalry passed in final review for 1933 on their way to Fort Sheridan. The troop was followed by the unit of the 61st artillery and the band of the 3d field artillery. Other units will leave today.

"We take a genuine and lasting pride in the soldiers that represented Uncle Sam at the Fair," said Mr. Dawes. "They did themselves proud while they were here. We cannot praise them enough."

The camp will reopen in 1934.

GUARD JUGO-SLAV LEGATION IN ITALY AGAINST ATTACK

ROME, Nov. 13.—(AP)—A heavy police guard remained at the Jugo-Slavian legation tonight in view of public feeling recently stirred by anti-Italian demonstrations in Belgrade, marking the anniversary of the treaty of Rapallo. This treaty, between Italy and Jugo-Slavia, ceded Fiume to Italy and Barosh to Jugo-Slavia.

Strict measures were taken here to avoid recurring demonstrations such as swept Italy a year ago following upon the dynamiting in the Jugo-Slavian village of Trau of several stone lions which had been placed there under the old Venetian regime. Local newspapers treated bitterly the recent Belgrade demonstrations characterizing them in one case as "deliberate and ostentatious aggression against Italy."

COOKING SCHOOL FOR WEST SIDERS TO OPEN TODAY

Musical Stars to Be Heard on Program.

Housewives of the west side will begin a course in cookery today when the second week of The Tribune's third annual cooking school opens in Guyon's Paradise ballroom, Crawford avenue near Washington boulevard. The classes will continue there tomorrow, Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, who conducts the lessons in cooking, will show her pupils how to stuff cabbage, how to make devil's food cake and cranberry pie, and how to prepare something called Mexican rabbit. Other dishes also will be demonstrated.

On Entertainment Program.
An elaborate program of entertainment awaits the west side housewives. Vincent Lopez, orchestra director and pianist, from the Chez Paree, will appear as a headliner. Others who will appear on the entertainment program are Charlie Agnew and Emile Ann Lincoln, of Charlie Agnew's orchestra, which is heard over W-G-N, and Russ Russell, W-G-N staff announcer.

Phil Maxwell will open the program as master of ceremonies, after which Carl Craven will lead the audience in community singing. Helen Bartush, soprano, will sing, and pupils from the Ideal Dance studios, under the direction of Miss Maybloss Macdonald, will appear in dance novelties.

One of the features will be a lecture-demonstration in the art of cookery by Erik Dahlberg, maitre d'hotel of the Drake hotel. Mrs. Chitwood will be introduced by Mary Meade, cooking editor of The Tribune.

High School Girls to Attend.
Seated in the audience will be the entire membership of the home economics classes of the Siena high school, 5649 Washington boulevard. On Thursday the home economics classes of St. Mary's High school will attend.

The Tribune's school of cookery opened last week in the Trionon ballroom. South side women filled the house for four successive days to learn from Mrs. Chitwood some of the secrets of cooking.

If anyone in the audience wants to ask questions, Mrs. Chitwood will answer them.
The doors of Guyon's Paradise ballroom will open at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. The program begins at 12:30 o'clock.

Find Bodies of 2 Men Who Died from Exposure

The bodies of two unidentified men who died from exposure were found yesterday. One, about 60 years old, died in a freight car on the St. Paul railroad tracks in Franklin Park. The other, about 70 years old, was found in a haystack on the Harry Butler farm two miles east of Plainfield, in Will county.

EX-BANKER GETS 1 TO 10 YEARS FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Roscoe H. H. Luckenbill, former president of the Exchange State bank, Van Buren and Wood streets, which closed in November, 1930, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of embezzling $15,000 of the bank funds and was sentenced to one to ten years in prison by Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court.

A stay of mittimus for two weeks was allowed by Judge Sullivan to allow Luckenbill to testify in civil proceedings growing out of the bank crash. Luckenbill surrendered at the Criminal court a week ago after being a fugitive since his disappearance in September, 1930, a short time before the bank closed.

A second count in the indictment charged Luckenbill with embezzlement of $97,000, but the state said that the case was not as strong as the count in which Luckenbill was charged with taking the $15,000. Clarence Walker, an auditor for the state's attorney, was the lone state witness. He told of discovering the shortage in an examination of books shortly after the bank was closed.

Phil Maxwell will open the program as master of ceremonies, after which Carl Craven will lead the audience in community singing. Helen Bartush, soprano, will sing, and pupils from the Ideal Dance studios, under the direction of Miss Maybloss Macdonald, will appear in dance novelties.

One of the features will be a lecture-demonstration in the art of cookery by Erik Dahlberg, maitre d'hotel of the Drake hotel. Mrs. Chitwood will be introduced by Mary Meade, cooking editor of The Tribune.

LINDY IS FORCED DOWN BY STORM ON LISBON HOP

Lands in River; Couple Sleep Aboard Plane.

VIGO, Spain, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh tonight slept aboard their seaplane moored in the Minho river not far from the place where they were forced to land by bad weather conditions on a flight to Portugal.

Officials of the nearby town of Valencia Do Minho were their hosts at a dinner earlier this evening.

May Resume Flight Today.
The Americans, who started from Santona, Spain, this morning, and decided to cut short the journey because of rain and fog, planned to continue to Lisbon early tomorrow if weather permits.

They were escorted to the Valencia Do Minho town hall where an impromptu dinner had been prepared in their honor. A number of officials from the Spanish town of Caldas de Tui and officials of the Spanish and Portuguese navies also attended. Several brief dinner speeches were given, in which aviators praised the Lindberghs highly. The Americans declined offers of several prominent Lindbergh Guards Craft.

Col. Lindbergh said he would remain aboard the plane, which was moored in the Portuguese town of Ilho Do Melo because he did not want any one else to touch the craft.

The Spanish gunboat, Cabo Pradera, which is doing frontier service, stood by following Lindbergh's refusal to accept offers of assistance.

Caldas de Tui is at the foot of high mountains, the haunts still of wolves and wild boars.
[Reports reached Madrid that the Lindbergh plane had fallen, and the government subsequently ordered a gunboat to the scene.]

AN ANSWER TO WHAT'S WRONG AT NOTRE DAME

Mechanical Errors Beat Irish.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

What's wrong at Notre Dame? The question, heard frequently since Kansas tied the Irish and Carnegie Tech started them on an unprecedented run of four consecutive defeats, has had a multitude of answers. The attack on Hunk Anderson, who in the space of two weeks was fired in newspapers from coast to coast, was so vicious that many have called for his support. The universal comment was tribute to Notre Dame's great reputation, and also the penalty on that greatness. But there'll be no pillaging of Anderson by Notre Dame as has occurred at state universities where outsiders, alumni or not, have means of bringing pressure to bear on university officials through the legislature. Notre Dame, a private university, will continue to conduct its athletics.

Their Breaks Are Few.
As far as coaching at Notre Dame is concerned, it probably wouldn't have made much difference who was chosen to succeed Knute Rockne. To follow the man who built Notre Dame's football reputation and who just finished two undefeated years is to invite criticism unless by a miracle that record is continued.

Having seen Kansas tie Notre Dame and watched Purdue beat Notre Dame last Saturday, we submit the general thesis that Notre Dame's lack of success is due more to mechanical failures than to inefficient coaching. Luck, or call it the breaks, also plays an important part in deciding a game where the teams are approximately even. The continued failure to get or make the breaks now has Notre Dame players under such mental pressure that they play as if they had two strikes on them.

Guards Are Weak.
Notre Dame's chief individual weakness apparently is at the guard positions. The material was either overestimated or failed to develop. Purdue made more ground between guard and tackle and over the guards than at any other point of attack during two successful forward passes. Those who criticize Anderson as a coach frequently have prefaced their observations with the remark that he was a great line coach under Rockne. Certainly it is strange that Notre Dame this year should be weakest at guard.

Notre Dame showed a lack of blocking ability and again the guards were the worst offenders. If Young and Elnay had been given just a more interference in the third quarter either might have broken away to tie the score. Purdue was leading at the time, 7 to 0.

Quarter Backs Inexperienced.
Kansas has lost four straight games since its tie with Notre Dame, which proves that the Jayhawks under the inspiration of meeting Notre Dame played better than they knew how.

Even with its weakness, Notre Dame might have won all its games except that with Pittsburgh. But it would have required better direction of its power than Notre Dame received. Incidentally, Notre Dame never has had a great sophomore quarterback. Harry Stohdrick did not arrive until his junior year. Frank Cardo spent his first year on the varsity learning what it was all about. That year, 1928, Notre Dame had an indifferent record. But this fall Notre Dame's critics expected a miracle. They believed Tony Mazzotti, a sophomore, would be a Stohdrick or a Cardo before he had played his first game. And the loss of Mazzotti, out of the lineup most of the time with injuries complicated the situation. Against Purdue, Notre Dame unwisely risked a pass deep in its own territory, which was intercepted for a touchdown. And yet Notre Dame's passes have been more successful this year than the running attack.

Mental Attitude Off.
Notre Dame had three second half scoring opportunities last Saturday. A fumble nullified the first. On the second, Notre Dame missed up an end around, forward pass trick play. Quite naturally, then, Notre Dame's quarter back depended on power plays when a forward pass had placed the ball three yards from Purdue's goal line and failed. In other words, you can't beat right unless you succeed.

Why does Notre Dame fumble? The Irish have committed many such errors. One reason may be the continued growth of a fumbling complex nourished by defeat and mental pressure. The player who doesn't think about fumbling probably won't. Having fumbled, he experiences the fear of fumbling and does it again.

FULLER ARRIVES TO PREPARE FOR BOUT WITH ROSS

Both Fighters Work Out with Sparring Mates.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There was quite a stir around the fight arena in the loop yesterday afternoon when Mr. Sabino Ferullo arrived.

"Must be a personal representative of Mussolini," remarked one loop bookkeeper to another loop bookkeeper as they shuffled along toward their favorite noonday eating place.

"And he must be trying to keep himself perfectly fit," remarked the other loop bookkeeper as he watched Mr. Ferullo make his way to Tracton's gymnasium on Randolph street.

"What are you fellows talking about?" inquired Mr. Jim Mullen who had overheard the conversation and had watched Mr. Ferullo step into the slow elevator which carries folks to the muscle factory in Tracton's gym.

"That's Sammy Fuller of Boston and he's going to fight Barney Ross and probably whip him for the world's junior welterweight championship next Friday night," continued Mr. Mullen.

It's Sammy Fuller.
These words of wisdom from the lips of Mr. Mullen, who was by this time charging toward the door leading to Tracton's gym, had no effect whatever on the two bookkeepers. Whether it was Mr. Ferullo from Italy or Mr. Sam Fuller of Boston made no difference to them. They had watched a celebrity of some kind come into the loop and such excitement doesn't come every day.

Mr. Mullen of course was right. He does not engage in loose talk about fights or fighters. When he reported that Sammy Fuller of Boston was in town, well, anybody who knows Mr. Mullen and knows anything about fights and fighters, would write it right down in their little notebook that Sammy Fuller was here and except for about three more days of hard training is ready to face Ross, who is the lightweight king of the world and who is willing to step a bit out of his class to fight Fuller and defend the junior welter title, which is not worth so much in dollars and cents.

Both Fighters Drill.
Mr. Fuller, or Mr. Ferullo if you care to call him by his correct name, showed quite a bit of fancy boxing right where they were in Tracton's gym. He boxed four rounds with Joey Kleko and Eddie Tonelli. His left hook to the body, his feint with his left and then a left to the head or body and then Kleko and Tonelli in distress long before the drill was finished.

Ross had worked in the same ring an hour earlier and while he was showing a dazzling line of speed, Fuller, a newcomer and a heavier boy, seemed to have made a better impression.

That is he made a good impression with the little fans who watched the workouts of both fighters. In other parts of the loop where odds are quoted on prize fights, wrestling matches, the horse, elections, ball games, etc., Ross ruled a heavy favorite.

Write Your Own Ticket.
One rather daring bookmaker, who may be rich today and broke tomorrow, was asked about the odds on the fight. Well, if you want to bet on Fuller write your own ticket on any amount," was his reply.

The tickets for the battle are going quite briskly, and evidently the odds and the odds of boxing fans don't believe the daring bookmaker, who probably couldn't pay off anyway if he laid 10 to 1 against Fuller, knows what he is talking about.

The boys will be at their tedious training tasks early today. Fuller works at 1 o'clock and Ross at 2 o'clock.

Supreme Court Dismisses Appeal of A's.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—The appeal of the American and National league baseball clubs of Philadelphia, challenging the validity of a license fee under which they are charged $500 for each policeman and fireman assigned to protect the public and guard against fire at their ball games, was dismissed today by the Supreme court.

THE GUMPS—MR. GOODFELLOW

HARD TO SATISFY

Al Simmons, Sox outfielder, in Chicago yesterday, didn't appear thankful to Owner Lou Comiskey for reducing size of ball park to help Al's batting average. Al now says it was lake breeze that kept his swats inside park where fielders could get them.

Seems Sox Done Wrong by Simmons in Shrinking Park

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Al Simmons is in town and reported to be giving out interviews again. It appears that Al, who certainly is one of the greatest ball players who ever lived, though not so good on interviews, really wanted Comiskey park made larger, instead of smaller, as his obliging boss, J. Lou Comiskey, had supposed.

If you read the morning newspapers you learned recently that the playing area at Comiskey park has been made smaller by moving the plate 14 feet in the direction of center field flagpole. The change, which involved complete and expensive changes in the entire layout, was made because Simmons, in many of his summer series of interviews, had complained repeatedly that his home park was a few feet too large to accommodate his best slugging range.

Everybody's Happy—For While.
Reporters who learned of the change, and subsequent comments, commended the change as a fair one to Al and others, especially in view of the fact that nothing was done to bring about a trick series such as that created several years ago in the Boston Braves' field when a permanent scenic grandstand incapable of accommodating customers was erected. Comiskey park remained the largest symmetrical playing field in the majors.

In his latest interview Al, described by his Biograph of the day as "scowling and bitter," is quoted as saying it was the lake breeze and not the size of Comiskey park which caused him to suffer his greatest slump of all time after mid-season last summer. In two months Al slumped from a sensational .355 to .311, and with few mentions of the wind but many about the size of the park.

Quite logically Al says he has no apologies to offer for .331. But why mention the lake breeze?

Good Old Lake.
When you come to think of it, it's sort of mean of Al to pick on good old Lake Michigan. Al probably hasn't figured it out, but the Lake Michigan that blows down his baseballs is the same Lake Michigan that blew fresh air into his lungs during his boyhood up in Milwaukee, making him the

WOLVERINE LINE IS TOO STRONG, BIERMAN SAYS

His Scouting Trip a Washout.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota had to give his information about Michigan to his Gophers second hand after all. It happened because the plane upon which Bierman was riding from Chicago to Ann Arbor Saturday was forced down at South Burnsville because of the poor visibility and a snowstorm. Bierman was forced to come back to Chicago and watch the Maroons against the Indiana Indians.

But Assistant Coach Sig Harris was on the job and today gave out all the information necessary. He said the Gophers would have to get the breaks to win over Michigan next Saturday and that they could not win on form.

With that as a starter, Bierman went to work with the idea of making ball hawks out of the Gophers, thereby fitting them to take advantage of the breaks if they come. Bierman concentrated his attention on forward passing, as he figures the Michigan line is well impregnable.

The Gophers were unable to do much out of doors because of the low temperature, and so they did their stuff indoors. But they ran through a hard workout just the same and appeared in first class shape.

WOLVERINES TIRED.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—A tired lot of Michigan football players had this afternoon off and even were given relief from the Monday school session today in the hope that they would be ready tomorrow to start work for the Minnesota game here Saturday.

It was intimated around the coaching offices that the boys would not be overworked this week, although a number of new plays will be handed out, a defense built for the Gopher offensive, and an attempt made to close up every gap in the spotty pass defense.

The boys who suffered injuries Saturday appeared to be in fair shape and it was said they probably would all be ready by Saturday. The cast was taken from Carl Savage's foot today, but he is expected to start Saturday. Carl W. Sugar is manager of a chain grocery store in Champaign, Ill.—C. C. Burford.

Relax Is Order in N. U. Camp; Regular Center Joins Maroons

Relaxation has been prescribed as the main ingredient in Northwestern's preparations this week for Saturday's game with Notre Dame at Dwyer stadium.

Coach Dick Hanley believes the epidemic of fumbling that has beset the Wildcats most of the year can be attributed to tenseness. The boys have been trying too hard, he thinks. Hence, order has been issued. It was the Saturday night, when the Illinois game without mishap, except for their mental wellbeing. For the fourth time this season they had out-gained an opponent, only to be defeated. It was the fifth game in six starts that Northwestern was held scoreless, despite the fact that it gained the greater yardage.

Several changes in the Wildcats' battlefront are imminent Saturday. The policy of letting punters roll rather than take a chance on fumbling them proved altogether too costly against Illinois and will not be attempted again. Freddy Lind, a reserve quarterback, who hasn't seen much action during his two years on the varsity, may be shifted to left half back Saturday where he will play the safety position on defense.

Chuck Duval, full back, who sustained a head wound in an automobile accident Saturday night, will not be able to work out this week. He may be able to play Saturday, however. Chilly Sutton will replace him in the event he is unable to play.

NOTRE DAME RESTS.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Coach Hunk Anderson called off practice today for the Notre Dame squad after Saturday's defeat by Purdue and went over scouting reports on Northwestern with his assistants.

Saturday's game at Evanston will be the official student trip and a heavy sale of tickets today indicated the student body will march on Evanston Saturday to a man. Notre Dame's 83 place band, replenished in new navy blue uniforms, will accompany the team.

GRIDIRON POT-POURRI.

NE play in the second period of the Illinois-Northwestern game Saturday caused considerable discussion at Purple homecoming gatherings that evening. Northwestern had the ball on Illinois' 17 yard line, fourth down with 8 to go. The argument was whether Northwestern's signal was for a place kick or a fake on a place kick formation. Several phone calls were received so we decided we'd better get an official version to verify the impression unexpressed over W-G-N between halves.

BATTERED BUCKEYES REST.

Columbus, O., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—The Ohio State football squad was given a holiday today to recover from the bruises received in the game against Pennsylvania Saturday. According to Coach Sam Williamson, the game was one of the hardest the Buckeyes have played all season and more than the usual number of bumps and bruises received.

Williamson is worried about the battle with Wisconsin at Madison Saturday, because of the confidence the Pennsylvania victory gave the players. "That will be harder than the Illinois game on Nov. 25," Williamson said, "but if we get through that one, there will be no stopping us in the last game of the year. The team is showing more coordination and power than at any other time. We showed that in the Penn game, but this Badger outfit has me worried."

BADGERS ESCAPE INJURY.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Chased by their success against West Virginia, the Badgers today turned their attention to preparations for reentrance into Big Ten competition and, especially, their game with Ohio State here Saturday.

None of the Wisconsin players was injured in the West Virginia game, but Coach Clarence W. Spears relieved all members of the first team of scrimmage after a warning up practice. Varsity men, benched during the West Virginia game, were introduced to Buckeye formations as enacted by the freshmen, who demonstrated last week that they knew more about West Virginia plays than the Mountaineers did.

IOWA TEAM CRIPPLED.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—While the University of Iowa trainer worked overtime trying to repair the damage done in the Michigan game Saturday, the few Iowa regulars who escaped injury took a light workout outside the field house this afternoon.

Coach Oase Solem limited the practice to callisthenics and signals, the objective being merely to limber up the

MACPHAIL, BUSH GO SHOPPING FOR NEW BALL TEAM

Hope to Rejuvenate Reds with Young Talent.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Larry MacPhail and Donie Bush headed for Galveston, Tex., today in search of minor league prospects for the Cincinnati Reds. At Galveston is a meeting of minor league club officials.

These MacPhail and Bush expect to talk over the managerial situation some more. But, most important, they will strive for a transfusion of some of the young blood MacPhail has declared emphatically he intends to inject into the Reds.

The Reds need two outfielders, a shortstop, a second baseman, a third baseman, another first-string catcher, and possibly another pitcher. To get them, MacPhail is reported ready to part with almost anybody on the Reds roster. He has sent out waivers on all of them.

Will Retain a Few.
It is believed he at least will hang on to two pitchers, St. Johnson and Red Lucas, and outfielder Chick Hayne and infielder Gene Roth. MacPhail, who put the Columbus Redbirds on the road to the American association pennant before resigning as president of the club in the middle of last season, took the reins of the Cincinnati Reds last week as Sidney Weil stepped out after four years of a stewardship hindered by financial reverses.

Bush to Get a Chance.
As for the status of Donie Bush, the new president of the Reds, the Reds is known to favor a playing manager and is reported to be eyeing Jimmy Wilson, Cardinal catcher. However, MacPhail has said Bush will be given first crack at the job.

Bush was headhunter for Wilson, which kept him from running the team for nearly two months last season, and is eager to try a comeback.

After the team's four years of obscurity, the Reds are looking again for the golden days of 1919 when the Reds won their last world series.

LANDIS IS OPTIMISTIC

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, believes there is nothing wrong with the game except "depression."

"Steel, factories, railroads, agriculture, live stock, baseball—all are down together and we'll ride back to the top," he said today.

Landis arrived here for the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues and was met by W. G. Bramham of Durham, N. C., president, and members of the executive committee of the association. They all echoed his belief that baseball's troubles would end as soon as the life of business and industry are restored.

Landis was hosted at a luncheon to Bramham, Alvin Gardner of Dallas, and Dale Gear of Topeka, presidents, respectively, of the Texas and Western leagues, and Warren Giles, vice president of the International league, and members of the executive committee.

A committee had not reached a decision of appeals made to it, but said it would decide on them tomorrow.

One of the appeals before the committee is that of Art Shires and three other former members of the Columbus team of the American association from fines assessed on the allegation that they made erroneous statements regarding their salaries. The others are Gordon Slade, Jim Lindsey and Charles Wilson.

Harold Myers, vice president of the Wilkes-Barre club of the New York-Pennsylvania league, is appealing from a two year suspension for an asserted erroneous statement relative to the club's salaries to players.

CANCELA GAINS 10 ROUND VERDICT IN CALMES BOUT
Tony Cancela, Tampa, Fla., heavyweight, defeated Baxter Calmes of Duncan, Okla., in the ten round wind-up of the boxing show at the Coliseum annex last night. Cancela weighed 193½ pounds and Calmes 176½.

The bout was about even going into the sixth round. From then on Cancela's superior weight showed to advantage. He appeared stronger and was punching harder at the finish, although Calmes' rally seconds before the final bell brought the crowd to its feet.

Solly Dukelsky, Chicago welterweight, held Pee Wee Jarrell of Fort Wayne, Ind., to an eight round draw. Dukelsky weighed 150 and his opponent 146. Other results:

George Bahnski, Chicago, 128, beat Ray Henderson, Kalamazoo, Mich., 129 (4). Eddie Micallef, Chicago, 147½, beat Chuck Reed, Chicago, 148 (16). Dorio Bonomo, Kalamazoo, Mich., 135, and Larry Moran, Chicago, 129½, drew (16).

K. OF C. BASKET LEAGUE TO OPEN PLAY SUNDAY
The Knights of Columbus basketball league will open its 21st season Sunday with 28 teams competing.

Play will be conducted in three divisions, south, west, and south-east. Shifting of various tournaments has resulted in the elimination of the north division for the first time in a number of years.

St. Cyr, north division and league champion, will play on the west side, as will Lafayette, runner-up for the north section title. The south division went through its preliminary round of sixteen games and the title series of five contests without a defeat.

Walter A. Terrell is serving his second term as president of the league, which has been in existence since 1915.

National Table Tennis Tourney Opens Friday
Leading players of the United States will compete in the American zone championship table tennis tournament at the Sheraton hotel Friday and Saturday. The winner will represent America in the international tournament at Paris, France. Sidney Heitner, United States singles champion, is among the entrants.

It appears that the championship team may come from the west side for this district, which has 500 entries, is well fortified in all of the eight weight divisions.

Four bouts at six rounds each will head the opening professional boxing show sponsored by the Lake Shore Athletic club at the club gymnasium Thursday night.

Harry Elmer, local 125 pound boxer, was to leave California yesterday for Japan where he is booked for a series of matches. Art Laaky, Minneapolis, Minn., heavyweight, is matched with Tom Patrick at Hollywood, Cal., Friday.

Willie Davis and Jim Johnson, colored heavyweights, were banned for 30 days yesterday for an unsatisfactory performance at Marigold Gardens last week.

Sammy Wolf, promoter, plans to offer a show Dec. 8. An amateur bill will be at Midway arena Friday. The National Boxing association and the Massachusetts Athletic commission have formed a working agreement.

A boxing and wrestling card will be held tomorrow at the Midwest Athletic club. It has been dedicated to the West Side Kiwanis club. In addition to boxing and wrestling there will be vaudeville.

SISK, ROTHIER FIGHT TO DRAW IN SIX ROUNDS

St. Mary's Denies Report It Will Play Detroit Team
Moraga, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Reports that St. Mary's College and the University of Detroit might meet in a post-season football game were denied today by Coach Ed Madigan of the Gaelic. Madigan said there had been no negotiations for such a game and that St. Mary's could not consider it, inasmuch as a post-season contest with Southern Methodist will be played in San Francisco Dec. 9.

HAWKS BATTLE CANADIEN SEXTET IN ROAD OPENER

Conquest of Rangers Aids
Morale Tonight.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 13.—The first of the 1933-34 away from home games for the Blackhawks will be played at the Montreal Forum tomorrow night when the Chicago team, which defeated the world champion New York Rangers last night, takes the ice against Les Canadiens.

The Canadian team will present, with a few exceptions, the same group of players which has carried it into Stanley cup play during the last two years.

Veterans are Good.
Howie Morens, Aurel Joliat and Johnny Gagnon still comprise one of hockey's mightiest front lines and most of the attack will center around the trio.

A newcomer to Les Canadiens ranks, but one whom Chicago hockey fans are quite familiar with, is Jack Riley, for two seasons first line center on the Chicago Shamrocks.

For the week's pilgrimage to Canada which includes games at Montreal tomorrow night and at Ottawa Thursday, Manager Gorman is bringing 15 players. Joe Strake, extra goalie; Tom Coulter and Helge Boström were left at home. The latter two will leave tomorrow to join the Wichita, Kas., team of the American Association.

Tom Will Be Back.

President McLaughlin and Manager Gorman both think they have one of hockey's greatest defense possibilities in big Tom Coulter and the contract which sends them to the minors stipulates that he and Boström be loaned as they believe that the veteran Boström's tutoring will be invaluable in bringing the youngster to major league caliber.

Kelly's run was one short of the world pocket billiard record made by Ralph Greenleaf, world's champion, at Detroit in 1929 against Frank Taberick, Schenectady, N. Y.

Kelly, Seaback, and Mosconi, all of whom will compete in the world's billiard meet in Chicago as a result of gaining the first three positions in the tourney here, are credited with seven victories and two defeats.

William Mosconi will play Seaback with Kelly playing the loser. The winners of the two afternoon games will meet in the final match tomorrow night. Winner of first place will receive $450, a percentage of the gate receipts, and a diamond medal.

KELLY AND CAGLE FROM BROOKLYN FACE CARDS NEXT

Playing Owners Come to Loop Sunday.

Sunday's Games

Brooklyn at Chicago Cardinals. A. J. Cagle, Chicago Bears at New York. Green Bay at Boston. Pittsburgh at Philadelphia. Portsmouth at Cincinnati.

The Cardinals next National Professional league football foe will be the Brooklyn Dodgers, who come to Wrigley field Sunday to end the Cardinals' present home stay.

It will be Brooklyn's first appearance in Chicago this year and its second encounter with the Cardinals. The Chicagoans were beaten at Brooklyn in their sixth game of the season, 7 to 0.

The Brooklyn team is owned by Chris Cagle and Shinybrook Kelly, two star backs in the league who became owners only this fall. Their big star is Benny Friedman, who will not be in the lineup Sunday, however.

Friedman Not Coming.

The absence of Friedman gives the Cardinals a ray of hope for revenge, for with the former Michigan star out of the game much of the pass menace, of which Friedman is the kingpin, will be missing.

Cagle, former Army star and Kelly, who came from Kentucky, form the chief offense of the Dodgers, although Johnny Karda, John Thompson, Oliver Hansen, Dick Richards and Dick Fiesel are stars in their own right.

A former Bear will appear in the visiting line in the huge bulk of Harold Ely, who broke in with the Bears after leaving Iowa last year. Ely is perhaps the biggest man in the league as he weighs 270 pounds. He'll be at tackle.

Cardinals Are Lighter.

The Cardinal line has been its biggest asset this season but it will be outweighed Sunday.

CLUVERIUS TO PRESIDE AT PUCK LEAGUE OPENING

Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant at Great Lakes, will have charge of the opening ceremonies of the Chicago Amateur Hockey association at the Coliseum Thursday night.

The Admiral will be accompanied by his staff. Capt. Edward Evers will raise the flag that will set the new league in motion.

The Blue Ribbons and Baby Ruths will play the first game in the newly formed league which has 18 teams on its roster. Both these teams went through a preliminary scrimmage yesterday afternoon. Emil Iversen, organizer of the league, has been drilling the four teams in the senior group daily and yesterday was the first time he let them cut loose.

The leading Canadian amateur teams as well as the best of the American university teams are scheduled to appear at the Coliseum during the season.

Giants Only Pro Team to Avoid Shutout

Only one team in the National Professional Football league has escaped the embarrassment of being shut out thus far this season. That eleven is the New York Giants, who, although defeated three times in nine games, never have failed to score at least seven points.

This ability to cross the goal lines of all opponents has placed the eastern leaders of the pro league far ahead in the race for team scoring honors. With a 56 to 0 romp over Philadelphia in their record, the Giants have an imposing total of 167 points, 26 more than the Green Bay Packers. The Packers suffered their first shutout against Portsmouth last Sunday.

Spartans Best on Defense.

Portsmouth has the best defensive record, only 43 points having been scored against the Spartans in seven contests. The Bears had a similar record until they were tied by the Philadelphia Eagles in the 3 to 3 surprise that will stand as a monument to the first Sunday game ever played in Philadelphia. The Giants have yielded 78 points.

The troubles that have beset the champion Bears on their current road trip—a 10 to 0 defeat at Boston and the tie with the once important Eagles—are likely to be amplified next Sunday when the Chicagoans play the Giants at New York. In their previous meeting the Bears escaped with a 14 to 10 victory by staging one of their famous last minute rallies.

Injuries Handicap Bears.

Injuries have deprived the Bears of several main cogs and in addition many of the players carrying on for the Halas eleven are not in the best of physical condition, although they are not all suffering from the effects of the last two Sundays. Eight games against the strongest teams of the league are enough to wear down the best of rugged professional.

The 13 to 9 victory of the Cincinnati Reds over the Cardinals Sunday was the first winning performance of the newcomer to the professional circuit. It also was the first time that the Reds had succeeded in scoring.

HAVE YOU LOST YOUR YACHT? A CODFISH ATE IT

Every so often discussions relating to the appetites of fishes come seeping out, and every man or boy who ever baited a hook jumps into the controversy. As often as not these discussions are as windy as the speaker, because every one knows a fisherman may be good to his wife and children, but the truth is not in him. Some lad angling for bass down in South Carolina, sub, caught a bass, lost him, then caught him again later. The fisherman was astounded to discover his first hook embedded in the bass' chop, which revealed beyond all doubt the voracious appetite of the fish. Straightaway he concluded that the bass is the greediest of all fish, an inference that was backed up by other fishermen and subsequently announced to the fishing world.

Codfish Like Nails for Dessert.

A bass really has an appetite that sets him apart from many of his finny friends, but even if he dined on nails, rubber boots, and twine he would still have to take a bass seat to a codfish. The lowly cod is not a game fish, so, naturally, sporting fishermen are not acquainted with him.

We will note in passing that there is not much sport in landing a codfish. You can capture him with grappling hooks, an art known as "digging," or haul him up on a hook baited with mussels. He rises to the surface passively and may be hoisted aboard without any difficulty. Plainly he is not a game fish.

But does he eat? Wow! A codfish is the octopus and goat of the sea; he will eat anything that is not nailed down, and even then, if he's big enough—and a cod often attains the weight of three hundred pounds—he'll eat the object and wash the nails down for dessert.

Opening a Codfish.

Yankee, Bluenose, and Newfoundland fishermen never weary of opening their captured codfishes. They never know what they will find, and they are as expectant as children on Christmas day. Gold watches, small anchors, belaying pins, shoe pins, broken pears, rubber posts, marlin spikes, rum bottles, and sea boots find their way into a codfish's paunch as readily as sou'westers, tin dippers, codded reef ropes, small chains, sludge pots, books on navigation, and stray shingles.

Were it not for the fact that a codfish is perhaps the most biologically prolific creature that swims, walks, or flies, the tribe would soon become extinct from indigestion.

BAR ASSOCIATION CHARGE AGAINST JUDGE SONSTEBY

Jonas Is Ready to Repeat Accusations.

The board of managers of the Chicago Bar association, at its regular meeting next Thursday, will consider the charges made by Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas concerning alleged illegal expenditures in the office of Chief Justice Sonstebly, it was reported yesterday.

Judge Jonas called upon the bar association to investigate the truth of his charges. He declared that an inquiry would disclose some surprising facts concerning the administration of the chief justice's office and the expenditures thereon.

"I am ready to appear before the bar association and repeat my accusations," Judge Jonas said yesterday. "I wonder if Chief Justice Sonstebly dare appear and answer them."

In a formal statement, Judge Sonstebly declared that "the finances of my administration are open to investigation."

Attacks Rule Book Plan.

One of the chief points made by Judge Jonas concerned the proposed printing of a bulky rule book at a cost of thousands of dollars. The rule book is unnecessary and was drawn in order to justify the existence of a $5,000 job for Hiram T. Gilbert, the chief justice's office, he charged.

Gilbert's $10,000 job as "special assistant" to the chief justice was abolished by the city council early this year, but he has been kept on the payroll and is paid a salary out of funds which legally should be saved for the benefit of the taxpayers, Judge Jonas asserted.

Judge Sonstebly said the printing of the rules would not cost the taxpayers a cent, as the cost of printing and distributing would be paid for by the sale of the rules to lawyers at a cost.

To which Judge Jonas replied that the law provides for the issuance of a copy of such rules to each of the 7,800 attorneys in Chicago free of charge. With the books costing $1.50 or $2 apiece, the public would be mulcted of more than $11,000, at least, he pointed out.

Other Judges Support Jonas.

A number of judges visited Judge Jonas in his chambers yesterday and informed him that they were with him in his fight to curb expenditures in the chief justice's office. There have been resentment among the judges because of the expensive office staff kept by the chief justice, which includes one assistant at $7,500 a year, three at $4,000, five subordinates assisting the assistants at an assortment of salaries, and an assortment of clerks and stenographers at comfortable salaries ranging from $2,500 up.

Judge Jonas revealed that he has written to Gov. Horner asking him to include in his call for a special session of the legislature the matter of investigating the charges he has made.

HOLC PREPARES TO FREE BILLION IN MORTGAGES

$413,000,000 Is Held in Illinois.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(P)—Acting vigorously along four fronts, John H. Fahey, new chairman of the Home Owners Loan corporation, sought today to revitalize the corporation's activities.

Fahey announced at his first press conference that he was:

1. Acting to free about a billion dollars in mortgages in closed banks of taxpayers' money.

3. Accelerating the organization of federal building and loan associations in counties which have few facilities of this kind at present.

4. Warning "chiselers" that they would get no home mortgage money.

To Aid Depositors.

One of the avowed purposes is to replace such slow assets with cash. Depositors in the banks can have payments made to them.

The corporation can exchange its own bonds for the mortgages, taking from the home owner a new mortgage to run for fifteen years. The home owner in turn can give the bonds

New York, Nov. 13.—The States government bonds continued their recovery which began on Saturday. Today's rally lifted prices 7-32nds to 24-32nds point on the day, with the exception of the called Fourth Liberty 4 1/2s and the First Liberty 4 1/2s which were down 1-32d and 4-32nds point, respectively. Dealings in the government issues aggregated $5,737,000 of the total listed debt of $14,583,000.

Domestic corporation bonds and foreign loans worked irregularly lower, with the rails the weakest of the former group.

List of Weakest Rails.

Particularly weak were the obligations of the Baltimore and Ohio, Erie, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Southern Railway, Texas and Pacific, and Western. In a number of instances the bonds of the given railroads failed to move in unison.

Despite the weakness of the railroads in the foreign bond market, leading foreign bond issues averaged lower. French government and municipal issues were bid up fractionally to 5 points, and British government 5 1/2s climbed 1 1/2 points. Dutch East Indies loans closed 2 1/2 up to 1/2 off, and Kingdom of Sweden 5 1/2s dropped 2 1/2.

German Loans Higher.

Most of the German loans closed higher in quiet dealings. Commonwealth of Australia 5 1/2s rose fractionally. Argentine government loans were the weakest of the Latin-American group.

Domestic bonds gave ground in the curb exchange, many issues losing 1 to 5 points. One feature of the day was the activity in a number of domestic issues hitherto infrequently traded, but in few of these was the price change of any importance.

Foreign loans, particularly German issues, pointed higher.

If you wish information about investments or insurance write to The Tribune Investors' Guide. Inc., 100 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. Answers of public interest are published, but inquiries names are never revealed. Beyond care in securing information The Tribune assumes no responsibility.

Investors' Guide: I am anxious to obtain some information on Air Reduction stock—F. O. T.

Answer: Air Reduction company, Inc., confirms that the company is not exclusively to manufacture of acetylene gases and equipment for welding and cutting. Ordinarily about 80 per cent of output is sold to railroads, 20 per cent to manufacturers, and 40 per cent to other industries. Contracting of railroads is about such business to about 20 per cent of output in 1932, while sales to general industry rose to 50 per cent.

High freight charges on the steel containers for the gases have held down the shipping rates of the product. The company has numerous plants and warehouses to supply different sections of the country. At the close of 1932 there were 115 plants and 120 warehouses.

Air Reduction and Union Carbide together furnish about 90 per cent of the country's oxy-acetylene gas requirements. Prices have remained fairly stable. Profits ordinarily are subject only to influence of demand. Pickup of the steel and automobile industries during the summer months, with a continuance of orders from small consumers, enabled the company to report earnings equal to $1.23 per share for the third quarter of 1933, against $1 cents share for the corresponding 1932 period. Net for the first nine months equaled $2.54 per share, against $1.98 for the first nine months of 1932.

Net income, following the trend of industrial activity, equaled $2.73 per share in 1932, $4.54 in 1931, $4.32 in 1930, $7.75 in 1929 and $4.61 in 1928. At the close of 1932 cash assets alone totaled $5,425,000, against total current liabilities of $2,551,000. Working capital amounted to $2,874,000, against $1,746,000 the year before. The decline was primarily due to the transfer of an undischarged amount of investments from current assets to noncurrent assets.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization is represented solely by 841,238 shares of no par stock. The stock pays regular dividends of 75 cents a quarter. An extra of 75 cents a share was paid Oct. 15, it was the first extra dividend since Oct. 15, Dec. 1, 1929, and 1928 and 1929 amounted to $1.50 a share.

The company should derive substantial benefit from the shipbuilding program and the steel rail orders sponsored by the federal government.

SENATE COMMITTEE ASKS JONES ABOUT RFC MIDLAND LOANS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The Senate committee on Banking and currency today asked J. Edgar Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, whether he had a personal interest in either of these companies.

The report of the RFC for June showed a loan of $1,070,000 authorized for the Midland company, which is understood to be a subsidiary of the Bankers' Mortgage company, of whose board Mr. Jones was chairman before he became a member of the RFC in 1932.

In addition to the $1,070,000 loan set aside for the Midland company in June, a loan of $430,000 was authorized for the same company in the RFC report for July; no part of this, however, had been disbursed up to the time the report was made.

A member of the senate committee said today that Mr. Jones told his members that the Midland company was operated by his brother, Arthur Jones, and that he had no interest in the RFC loans or that he was personally connected with either of the mortgage companies.

From the time of its formation, Feb. 1, 1932, the corporation has disbursed $2,896,497.78 out of authorization totaling $3,344,556.35.

Loans to Banks.

During the third quarter the corporation lent banks and trust companies $157,027,665, of which $122,500,226 was for the reorganization or liquidation of failed banks.

Loans to building and loan associations were $1,440,721; insurance companies, $2,653,842; mortgage loans, $10,000; federal land banks, $4,800,000; joint stock land banks, $2,854,500; agricultural credit corporations, $470,520; redemptors for agricultural credit corporations, $30,015,863; livestock credit corporations, $400,000; and railroads, $5,856,000.

Aid to Agriculture.

Under the 1932 emergency relief act 19 loans aggregating $55,353,232 were authorized, and under another section $53,850,543 was lent for financing sales of agricultural surpluses in foreign markets and $2,474,750 to finance the sale of surplus agricultural commodities and livestock.

Advances to banks on preferred stock during the quarter totaled $2,891,500 and subscriptions for preferred stock in banks and trust companies, $1,037,500. The corporation also purchased $500,000 of bank debentures.

In connection with the preferred stock purchases, it was said that since Sept. 30 many millions of dollars of stocks and debentures either have been purchased or their purchase authorized.

The corporation said that during the third quarter $135,000,000 of its 3 1/2 per cent notes were sold to the secretary of the treasury, making $1,322,000,000 of notes outstanding on Sept. 30.

DOZES, ABSORBS

SELLING FLURRY

Price Changes Small,
About Evenly Divided.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, N. Y., Nov. 13.—With the speculative fraternity remaining under wraps today's stock market was an uninteresting affair. The list generally backed and filled in a narrow range, but displayed a firm undertone from the start to finish.

A selling flurry around 2:30 agitated the market's complacent surface a little. The movement was concentrated chiefly in pivotal issues and the small crop of offerings was easily absorbed. Firmness had been restored at the finish and closing quotations showed a mixture of small, insignificant changes, losses barely exceeding declines in number. Turnover was around one million shares.

Inflationary psychology remained firmly in the saddle as the market's dominating influence, with the rank and file of traders holding favorable to the bull side on the assumption that inflationary forces would sooner or later be reflected in the price trend.

Higher Gold Firms Markets.
Further decline in dollar exchange on another increase in the domestic gold price posted by the RFC was the cue for higher commodity prices, which in turn contributed to the stock market's good tone.

Prices were regular at the opening, but the undertone was firm, with the rallying tendencies at the close of the market last week still in evidence. After the early strength had faded to attract a steady speculative following, however, prices resumed a slow drifting course.

Bearing out the inflation theme, the bulk of demand again was focused on metals, oils, rubbers and other groups with commodity relationships.

Oils especially were in the limelight. Standard of New Jersey rose to a new high for the year and brought out good buying interest from groups of the petroleum section, which on the average were at the best levels of the movement.

A sizable array of the "little fellows" among the market also enjoyed a sudden spurt of activity at rising prices after a long stretch of inactivity.

Steel News After Close.
Contrary to the predictions of trade journals, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported improvement in the steel industry, the first in several weeks. This did not come out, however, until after the close of the market, but traders were little moved by the earlier gloomy forecasts. United States Steel and Bethlehem posted small fractional gains on the day.

Other pivotal industries were out of harmony at the close, American Can, Chrysler, General Motors, and Westinghouse showing minor advances against fractional recession in Du Pont, General Electric, and Radio.

Buyers were attracted to Curtis Wright on the news that the big aviation firm had made a deal for production of its motors in Russia. The stock closed up 1/4 on a hefty turnover.

Patino Mines—a feature Saturday on rising prices—was again in demand, but traders were little moved by the earlier gloomy forecasts. United States Steel and Bethlehem posted small fractional gains on the day.

GAS AND ESPRESSO PROFIT TAKING

Inflation Talk Continues to Dominate Pits.

By CHARLES MICHAELS.

Inflation talk continues to predominate in the grain markets and with the price of gold steadily advancing and the dollar on the upgrade, the only pressure of consequence yesterday came from operators who were taking profits on previous purchases. However, there was no evidence of heavy buying on the part of the general public and some uncertainty was apparent in the general comment regarding the monetary situation.

Liquidation started in the December deliveries of all grain during the day, with holders generally transferring their lines into the distant future. This resulted in a widening of the spread between December and May to some extent.

Close Near Top.

Despite profit taking, all grains closed well toward the top, with wheat in the lead, gaining 1/2 cent, and corn, 1/4 cent, and soybeans, 1/8 cent. The dollar advanced 1/8 cent, and the gold price rose 1/2 cent. The dollar was 1 1/2 cents higher, with May at 68 1/2 cents. Barley closed 1/4 cent higher, with May at 64 1/2 cents.

For the first time in some years Winnipeg wheat futures were reduced to the basis of American futures, as a premium over the blackboard quotations. Exporters were good buyers of futures in the Canadian market to remove hedges against sales of 150,000 bushels against the dollar. The dollar was unchanged, and the finish was unchanged to 1/2 cent higher in Canadian funds and 1/2 cent higher in American. This was due to the premium of around 1/2 cent for the Canadian dollar, which was 1/2 cent lower to 1 cent higher per bushel as compared with Friday's finish, a higher rate for sterling having some effect.

Dry Weather Hurts Wheat.

Increasing complaints of dry weather are coming from the south-west and the winter wheat crop there is now claimed to be going backward despite the recent rains in the areas which suffered from drought for a number of months. The dust storm which hit the west Sunday night served to call attention to the fact that the dry area now involves many millions of acres.

Chicago received 629 cars of cash corn yesterday, the heaviest run in some weeks, reflecting the recent heavy purchases to arrive. However, as the grain had been largely hedged some days ago, the liberal movement failed to have any effect on the market of consequence. The country sold 175,000 bushels to arrive on the advance in futures.

Action of wheat and corn dominated the oat and rye markets, with good buying of the former grain appearing on the minor breaks. There was evidence of further imports of Canadian rye having been made in the east the last week, as supplies in bond were reduced sharply.
